

HOLLYWOOD CELEBRITIES WHO ARE FAMOUS FOR NO GOOD REASON

The entertainment industry can be a confusing mess sometimes. More often than not, we come across celebrities who have gained fame and fortune for no good reason. Star Showbiz looks into some of these Hollywood celebrities, and whether you find the list agreeable or disagreeable; be sure to let us know!

Danielle Bregoli

Remember the "Cash Me Outside" girl? Made famous only for saying the words "Cash me outside, howbow dah" in an episode of The Dr. Phil Show, Danielle Bregoli has been at the centre of internet memes and widespread criticism ever since her first few days of ironic relevance. She later on made a music video named Cash Me Outside that boosted her popularity even more, to the point of garnering millions of views in YouTube within a very short timeframe. If there's anyone who became famous for no apparent reason, Danielle Bregoli is at the top of the list.

Jaden Smith

Will Smith is known as one of the hardest working actors of Hollywood and a renowned personality in the film industry. His son, Jaden Smith, is known as an entitled youngster who loves to spout incomprehensible opinions in social media and ride on the coattails of his father's popularity. Even though he has starred in a number of films, his performances have always received negative criticism. More importantly, the lack of strict parenting and an easy-going household has made this young celebrity quite oblivious to reality, with him and his sister being made infamous for stating nonsense that has never failed to garner widespread distaste.

DJ Khaled

DJ Khaled is a name famous for collaborating with artists such as Rick Ross, Lil Wayne, Wiz Khalifa and many more. But trying to answer the question "What does DJ Khaled actually do?" is a difficult task. It is claimed he is a singer even though most of his songs include more famous artists singing most of the parts, and his position as a music producer is debatable since there is no substantial proof he actually makes music.

One thing for certain though, he has an uncanny number of followers in Snapchat and Instagram, and is a hugely popular subject of memes. DJ Khaled is one of those celebrities no one is certain what he is famous for.

Kim Kardashian

Kim Kardashian is famous simply for being famous, and she has steamrolled her way to success, money and unexplainable popularity by associating herself with the right people. Similar to Paris Hilton, whom she is apparently childhood friends with, Kim also rose to fame due to a leaked scandalous video. Her reality-drama show Keeping Up with the Kardashians has made her a top celebrity in Hollywood, despite the fact that no sane audience can comprehend the reason why. Kim continues to ride on her husband Kanye West's popularity, but the truth remains that she and her family are frequently the most talked-about topic in the entertainment industry, and of course, for no good reason.

Paris Hilton

If scandals were considered a reasonable claim to fame, then Paris Hilton would probably rank as the most famous celebrity of them all. Before her sudden popularity, Paris Hilton was nobody but a rich heiress born into a life of fortune and more fortune. Released just a few weeks before her TV series The Simple Life, a scandalous video was what made Hilton a media wonder. Nowadays, her fame extends to being a businesswoman, model, socialite, designer and even a DJ; even though she notably has shown little to no talent in any of these lines of work. She is popular, that's for sure, but definitely for no actual reason.

