

The Art of Deflection

If you've made a boo-boo, the right thing to do is wo/man up and own up to your mistake or transgression. Take full responsibility of your actions and make honest effort to be a better person.

But then certain folks don't do the right thing and here's where deflection comes in. Deflection is the delicate art form employed by human garbage to attempt to divert attention away from a serious allegation by making an admission that may or may not be relevant but scores 150 out of 100 in the drama category.

EXAMPLE
 Allegation: You're stolen from an orphan.
 Deflection: I'm a unicorn.
 Don't do it. The world deserves better.

– Karim Waheed, appalled

THIS WEEK'S HORRORSCOPE

ARIES

Take a 5 minute break before every sentence you speak.

TAURUS

How many kinds of blackness do you know?

GEMINI

Count the lines on your palms. Double the number, subtract 37. Magic.

CANCER

Name one place which makes you both rich and poor. The answer is always the ATM.

LEO

No movie will win the Oscars this year.

VIRGO

The 'R' on your car gear stands for 'Race' mode. Try it.

LIBRA

Trick your parents into believing that Gmail is superior to the email.

SCORPIO

How many sides does your cubicle have?

SAGITTARIUS

Blueberry cheesecake did nothing wrong. Forgive her.

CAPRICORN

If you're losing hair, it's probably because you're going bald. Or vice versa.

AQUARIUS

Jimmy Neutron has a twin and a half-sister. Can you guess their names?

PISCES

Pat yourself if you think everything that happens in the world, happens inside you too.

APP REVIEW

An infinite number of games

RASHEED KHAN

Platforms: iOS, Android

You've got two choices at hand. Choice number one is to go on the app store and spend hours and hours looking for games, painstakingly waiting for them to download (especially if you've got slow internet), trying them out and then sighing in possible frustration when you realise this isn't really that fun. Choice number two is to download "Bored Button", an app with a possibly infinite number of arcade games, for free.

The function of this app is extremely simple. You turn it on, it loads up a game from their server and you play it.

If you don't like what you're playing, no need to fret – just press the nice, big red button and it immediately loads up another game for you to try out. If you STILL don't like it, rinse and repeat. If you like it, there's a save button which allows you to save all your favourite games.

The only drawback (apart from ads) is that some of the games here may not interest you and almost all the games tend to follow more or less the same pattern as the one you might have previously played.

On the plus side, if you have low expectations and don't play very taxing games on your phone, this app is all you need. Some games actually are pretty good.

MIXTAPE

FAKE

THE WEEKND

Secrets

TWENTY ONE PILOTS

Fake You Out

BADBADNOTGOOD

Vices

10 YEARS

Beautiful

RADIOHEAD

Fake Plastic Trees

THE BLACK CROWES