HC commutes death penalty of killer

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The death sentence of the killer of Supreme Court lawyer Sayma Khanum was commuted by the High Court to life imprisonment yesterday.

The convict is Faizul Islam, an assistant accountant in the Public Works Department.

According to the prosecution, the convict stabbed advocate Sayma, 44, a former cultural affairs secretary of Dhaka Bar Association, to death inside her Elephant Road apartment in the capital on July 17, 2007.

A week later, Faizul was arrested in connection with the murder. Faizul confessed to killing Sayma, claiming that he had given a total of Tk 12 lakh to Sayma after she promised him that she would arrange a cadre service job for him under the 27th BCS examination. Sayma, however, did not keep her promise, Faizul also claimed.

On October 4 in 2011, a Dhaka court handed down death penalty to Faizul for killing the lawyer.

Yesterday, the HC bench of Justice Md Ruhul Quddus and Justice Bhishmadev Chakraborty gave the verdict.

Deputy Attorney General Moniruzzaman Rubel told The Daily Star the government will move an appeal before the SC, seeking capital punishment for Faizul.

RU prof 'discovers shinier, stronger' golden fibre

STAFF CORRESPONDENT, Rajshahi

A pharmacy professor of Rajshahi University has claimed to have discovered a new natural fibre and said this golden thread is better than jute or linen.

Prof Anwar Ul Islam has already finished a four-year research on the fibre and called upon textile experts to work on his findings and see whether it could be produced commercially.

"The fibre surpasses the brightness, softness and strength of jute and linen," he said in a recent interview with The Daily Star. The former science faculty dean said it would be useful for making comfortable clothes.

According to a 2016 report of fortnightly Apparel News, the fibre is "quite comfortable like the cotton as well as very glossy, which would bring brightness and shine in the clothes."

Prof Anwar, who is currently working with US scientists on anti-cancer medicines, calls his findings a "by-product of his regular hit-or-miss experiments".

Graduating in pharmacy from Dhaka University, Anwar did his PhD in India in 1983.

He joined RU in 1991 after serving a pharmaceutical company for some years.

Apart from teaching, he conducts experiments, often out of his personal necessities.

The professor developed a herbal nasal drop when he suffered cold, and produced a hair tonic and a fairness cream from herbs when he felt he was ageing.

The new fibre came up in the middle of these experiments.

"I spotted a plant four years ago when I needed a plenty of fibres for tying plants to sticks at my garden," said the professor who resides in a spacious house on the campus. "Then I found out a microorganism that helps obtain quality fibres from the plant's stem."

Prof Anwar declined to give the names of the plant and the bacteria, which helps extraction of the fibre from the plant's stalks, because he has not got a patent on his discovery yet.

The scientist conducted the research all by himself, starting in 2013.

The court also fined him Tk 50,000, in default of which he has to suffer six more months in jail, said Bibekanondo Chowdhury, lawyer for the complainant.

Judge Motahir Ali of Chittagong Women and Child Repression Tribunal-2 delivered the verdict, he said.

According to the prosecution, the girl was taken to Ful Mia's Bayezid residence for some problems on January 17 in 2008.

The man gave a charm to the girl and was able to convince her relatives that the talisman would work only when someone had sexual intercourse with her.

Later, he raped the girl after taking her to another room.

JS to discuss Rohingya issue

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Separate discussions will take place in the ongoing 18th session of parliament on Unesco's recognition of Bangabandhu's historic March 7 speech, Rohingya issue, and the 63rd Commonwealth Parliamentary Association conference.

The Business Advisory Committee of the Jatiya Sangsad (JS) set the agenda during a meeting at the parliament yesterday.

With Speaker Shirin Sharmin Chaudhury in the chair, Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina told the meeting that the historic speech of Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman was the main driving force of the nation because through his speech the father of the nation had given instructions for guerrilla fighting and called for economic freedom.

Pointing to the Rohingya issue, the prime minister said Bangladesh had opened up a "new door of humanity" by giving shelter to Rohingyas, which was lauded worldwide, according to a release of the parliament secretariat.

Hasina also praised all concerned, especially Speaker Shirin Sharmin, for successfully holding the 63rd CPA conference in Dhaka from November 1 to 8.

The House will discuss the three issues on different dates, but the dates and time of the discussions were not finalised yet.

Unesco on October 30 declared Bangabandhu's March 7 speech as a part of the world's documentary heritage.

On this day in 1971, the father of the nation called on the freedom-loving Bangladeshis to wage a decisive struggle against the Pakistani rulers. The speech had set the tone for the Liberation War that would officially begin on March 26.

The Business Advisory Committee also decided that the current session of
