Majnu Ekjon Pagol Nohe underway

Daily dose of comedy on the small screen

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

New comedy series "Majnu Ekjon Pagol Nohe" has begun airing every week from Sunday through Tuesday. The series aired its first episode this week on November 12 at 10pm. Scripted by Brindaban Das, the play is helmed by Sanjit Sarkar and features popular actors Chanchal Chowdhury, Fazlur Rahman Babu, Shahnaz Khushi, Farhana Mili, Golam Farida Chhanda and more. Gazipur's scenic Pubail was chosen as the series' prime location for filming. Scriptwriter Brindaban Das said the play contains an important social message. "I always try to incorporate important lessons in my screenplays, and here I have tried to portray how we distance our loved ones when it's most convenient for us," he added. Brindaban Das also informed The Daily Star that 104 episodes have been planned for the series so far. Chanchal Chowdhury, who plays the titular role, said, "Throughout my acting career I have portrayed many different characters on screen, but the audience will see me in a new guise here. Majnu is thought to be a madman, but he is anything but crazy. I am truly enjoying this role." The series require the acting cast to deliver dialogues in the local Pabna dialect, which has proved to be challenging for some. "It was difficult at first, but as work progressed it began to flow naturally," said actress Farhana Mili. "The backbone of this series is its strong narrative, which I believe will draw many regular viewers," stated Fazlur Rahman Babu.

Taapsee, Vicky Kaushal in Anurag Kashyap's MANMARZIYAN

Bollywood actors Vicky Kaushal and Taapsee Pannu will be paired together for director Anurag Kashyap's brand-new version of "Manmarziyan", reports Times of India. About two years ago, filmmaker Aanand L Rai had booted the project with director Sameer Sharma at the helm of affairs, and Ayushmann Khurrana and Bhumi Pednekar headlining the cast. However, after a schedule, the film was put on the backburner for various creative reconsiderations. Sameer was replaced by director Ashwiny Iyer Tiwari who was expected to take over the project as her second film after "Nil Battey Sanatta", but it didn't materialise. The project was then set aside. And now, Times of India reports that when Anurag Kashyap was roped in to reboot the project, the team decided to not only have a fresh story but also a new lead pair to avoid baggage from the past. Vicky, who was also a part of Sameer Sharma's version in a supporting role, has been roped in as the lead in the new version alongside Taapsee. Principal photography for the film is set to commence shortly.

AC/DC co-founder Malcolm Young dies

Malcolm Young, guitarist and co-founder of Australian legendary rock band AC/DC, died Saturday at the age of 64. Young had been suffering with dementia for the past three years, an illness that forced his retirement from the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame-inducted band he founded with his brother Angus Young in 1973. "Today it is with deep heartfelt sadness that AC/DC has to announce the passing of Malcolm Young," AC/DC wrote in a statement. The Young brothers lost their older brother George Young, the Easybeats guitarist and AC/DC's longtime producer, in October at the age of 70, reports Rolling Stone. In an additional statement from Malcolm Young's family, the band said that Malcolm Young died peacefully Saturday with his family by his side. As rhythm guitarist for the legendary rock band, Malcolm Young served as an indispensable foil to Angus Young's arena-stuffing riffs. After forming AC/DC in 1973, the Young brothers would be credited as co-writers on every song the band recorded from their 1975 debut "High Voltage" through 2014's "Rock or Bust". That final album marked AC/DC's first without Malcolm, who announced in September 2014 that he would permanently leave the band due to dementia. Malcolm Young last performed live with AC/DC when their tour for 2008's "Black Ice" concluded in June 2010 with a concert in Bilbao, Spain. Like his older brother George and younger brother Angus, Malcolm was born in Glasgow, Scotland before the whole Young family migrated to Sydney, Australia in the early '60s. In 1973, Malcolm recruited Angus to form a new band, which the brothers named after the "AC/DC" electrical current marker they spotted on their sister's sewing machine. After a few lineup changes, the Young brothers were introduced to singer Bon Scott by their brother George, who would serve as AC/DC's producer on their early albums. Throughout AC/DC's tenure, Malcolm and Angus Young served as the band's main creative force, crafting the unmistakable riffs that would make AC/DC one of the biggest bands in music. Together, the brothers would create the music for hits like "Back in Black", "Hells Bells", "Highway to Hell", "Thunderstruck", "For Those About to Rock (We Salute You)", "You Shook Me All Night Long" and dozens more rock staples. The Young brothers and AC/DC were inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in 2003. With over 110 million albums sold, AC/DC is also the best-selling Australian act of all time.
