ancestral home. The women had been raped and men were killed, he said.

Referring to the well-known fable of Aesop, "The Lamb and the Wolf", he said Rohingyas have always been treated as lamb since they had been termed guilty regardless of whatever they did.

The Rohingyas have to be repatriated and the perpetrators should be tried in international court, he added.

Referring to the recent memorandum of understanding (MoU) between Myanmar and Bangladesh, Supreme Court lawyer and rights activist Barrister Jyotirmoy Barua said the next course of action should be a strong diplomatic effort for the safe return of Rohingyas.

Bangladesh should also raise the issue of the Myanmar army's criminal act before international court, he added.

Prof Shapan Adnan, a teacher at DU and member of international advisory board of Journal of Peasant Studies, said the mechanism for verifying the Rohingyas, who fled the atrocity, demanded by Myanmar for their repatriation is virtually impossible.

Raziya Sultana, a M a l a y s i a - b a s e d Rohingya lawyer and teacher, said the Rohingya community requires more support from the global community to establish their due rights. "We need more support from you," she told the conference.

Burmese rights activist Maung Zarni said the Myanmar army has been conducting atrocities on the Rohingyas since 1978 based on a "single lie" that they do not belong to the Myanmar State of Rakhine.

Attempts were on to destroy an entire community, which is a "slow process of genocide", said Zarni, also a scholar on racism and genocide living in the US, while presenting a paper.

Prof U Kyaw Win, a retired teacher at Orange Coast College in California, said there should not be any deviation between racial identities like Rakhine and Rohingya as they all are brothers and sisters.

Lauding Bangladesh for opening up its border, Malik

Mujahid, chair emeritus of Parliament of the World Religions, a global interfaith movement, said human rights commission in Bangladesh should collect testimonies of Rohingyas to know the magnitude of massacre they have faced.

Bangladesh Bouddha Kristi Prochar Shangha President Sanghanayak Sudhanda Mahathero said what Myanmar committed on the Rohingyas was "shameful and disgraceful for humanity". "As a Buddhist, I'm heartbroken," he said.

Gonoshasthaya Kendra founder Dr Zafrullah Chowdhury said a more pragmatic approach is required for ending the sufferings of Rohingyas.

RMMRU Coordinator Prof CR Abrar said they have engaged different voices from across the globe to create a common platform and also to convince policymakers in a constructive way, for a fruitful solution to the issue.

SC Judge Justice Syed Refaat Ahmed also stressed the need for a durable solution.

Chairing the inaugural session, DU Vice Chancellor Prof Md A k h t a r u z z a m a n thanked the organisers for arranging the conference on the campus.

The Daily Star Associate Editor Brig Gen (retd) Shahedul Anam Khan said Myanmar's commitment over a peaceful solution to the crisis has so far remained skeptical.

Dr Nancy Hudson-Rodd of University of Tasmania in Australia said Rohingyas were deprived of their legal status. They have no rights to challenge the authority's decision.

Dr Helen Jarvis, member, panel of judges of Permanent People's Tribunal (PPT) on State Crimes on Myanmar 2017, said there are sufficient amount of evidence that the Myanmar government has been carrying out genocide and crimes against humanity on Rohingyas.

As part of the conference, a solidarity rally and procession, from in front of national museum to Central Shaheed Minar via Doel Chattar, will be held today, demanding restoration of citizenship rights of the Rohingyas, and trial of the perpetrators of genocide by the International Criminal Court.
