

Emma Watson and William "Mack" Knight Part Ways

Emma Watson has called it quits with William "Mack" Knight. The former Harry Potter actress has ended her relationship with her tech entrepreneur boyfriend after two years of relationship. Watson has always been extremely private about her personal life, and has never tried to share her own thoughts and plans with the media before. Thus, her relationship with Knight remained within her personal realm so far. However, many reports have recently confirmed this pair's split. Previously they had been photographed multiple times in different cities. The duo sparked romance rumors in early 2016 after reportedly going on a trip to Big Sur together.

Source: Internet

75 Years of Casablanca Legacy

Sunday, 26th November marked the 75th anniversary of the premier of the classic film Casablanca. Many consider the film to be a timeless story of love, loss and redemption. The iconic story starred Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman as Rick Blaine and Ilsa Lund, two star-crossed lovers whose union had to be sacrificed for the sake of fighting the Nazis. The movie was screened at New York's Hollywood Theater on 26th November, 1942 to capitalize on the invasion of North Africa. Even though the movie won its viewers' hearts slowly, it bagged the Oscars for Best Picture and Best Director in 1944.

Source: Internet

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS

Britney Spears

Anyone born during the 90s is well aware of the fame Britney Spears possesses. Considered an iconic pop star who paved way for many other teen singers to shine, Britney is known by fans and critics alike as someone who has never failed to garner success. Her first two albums Baby One More Time and Oops! I Did It Again sold over 20 million copies internationally, which established her as the most successful teenage artist of all time. She won a number of awards, including the Grammy one time, MTV Video Music Award six times and Billboard Music Awards seven times. She has also been credited Lifetime Achievement Awards and even has her own star in the Hollywood Walk of Fame. There is simply no understating the fame and fortune this pop sensation has amassed over the years. Star Showbiz wishes the Princess of Pop a fantastic birthday and lots more successful years to come.

