

Community health workers demand job nationalisation

STAR COUNTRY DESK

Demanding nationalisation of their job, Community Health Care Providers (CHCP) in Lalmonirhat have been observing work abstention since Monday, while they staged sit-in programmes in Brahmanbaria and Pirojpur yesterday.

District CHCP Association President Mahbubuzzaman Milon said programmes for realisation of their demand are being observed country-wide, reports our Lalmonirhat correspondent. Brahmanbaria district unit of CHCP Association observed a sit-in yesterday at the civil surgeon's office premises, demanding nationalisation of their job, reports our Brahmanbaria correspondent.

They observed the day-long programme where officials of 246 clinics from nine upazilas took part. Demanding nationalisation of their job, the CHCP observed sit-in programme in Pirojpur yesterday, reports our Pirojpur correspondent.

On the occasion, CHCPs from different upazilas in the district gathered in front of Pirojpur civil surgeon's office from 9:30am to 3:00pm.

After the programme, they handed over copies of a memorandum to the deputy commissioner and the civil surgeon, for sending it to the prime minister.

Santals achieve a milestone

Primary school teacher Chadni first in local community to win government job in Khagrachhari

SAIKAT DEWAN with ANDREW EAGLE

Primary school teacher Chadni Santal is breaking new ground. Three months ago when she started her job at Golak Pratima Muk Government Primary School, six kilometres from Panchhari upazila headquarters in Khagrachhari, she became the first Santal from the Chittagong Hill Tracts to secure a government position. The whole of her community is overjoyed.

Historically, Santals were brought to the hills by the British for the purpose of maintaining the region's unsealed roads; a task that understandably declined in importance over the decades, as the road network steadily improved. In more recent times the community has struggled with unemployment and underemployment. Ad hoc day labour and seasonal farm work have long been their main income-earning opportunities.

There are currently 143 Santal families living across three of Khagrachhari's upazilas. It's a close community that over time has formed an identity of some distinction from that of their several million brethren Santals living in other parts of Bangladesh and beyond. To emphasise their unique heritage, for example, Santals in the hills tend to use Santal as their second name in place of family names.

In such circumstances Chadni's achievement is more than a little exciting.

"To get a government primary school job was unimaginable for me," says Chadni, who scored well in both her Secondary and Higher School Certificates. "I'm so happy!"

"It's a very competitive process and candidates often have to lobby extensively," she explains, "I won the position without lobbying. I'm really grateful to the chairman and councillors of the Khagrachhari Hill District Council, and to the present government for my appointment."

Chadni, who had previously applied unsuccessfully for around ten other public and private sector positions, received the news of her success while completing her honours course at Khagrachhari

Government College.

The new job is a milestone achievement not only for her community but for Chadni personally, along what hasn't been an easy journey. The only daughter of a single-parent family was primarily raised in her grandparents' home. Her father abandoned the family when she was just two years old. In 2003, when she was admitted to class three at the Khagrachhari Government Childcare Centre in the district town, she was the only Santal student.

"My immediate goal is to complete my honours course," she says. "My dream is to work for Santal children to help them too succeed at education."

"There isn't a single family within our local Santal community who has good financial circumstances," says Manik Santal, the president of the Santal Students' Forum. "That is why the whole community supports education. A member of our collective family has now been appointed as a teacher. We're just thrilled!"

IRREGULARITIES IN MADRASA

AL leader stabbed

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Patuakhali

A ward level Awami League (AL) leader came under attack yesterday allegedly by his rivals while he was distributing leaflets that inscribed the irregularities of a local madrasa in Kalapara upazila of the district.

Nur Sayeed Hawlader, general secretary of Ward no 7 unit AL, is now undergoing treatment at Barisal Sher-e-Bangla Medical College Hospital (SBMCH) with stab injuries in his left hand and left leg.

Locals said Sayeed has been distributing leaflets that mentioned the irregularities of Akkelpur Senior Madrasa for the last couple of days.

A gang led by local goons Sohag and Kanon swooped on Sayeed and beat him mercilessly before stabbing him with sharp weapons in Haziপুর area and fled the scene, locals alleged.

Hearing screams, villagers took him to Kalapara Upazila Health Complex from where he was referred to SBMCH.

Locals said the attackers are close aides to Ruhul Amin, AL leader and chairman of the madrasa managing committee.

"Ruhul's men Sohag and Kanon attacked me while I was distributing the leaflets yesterday," injured Sayeed said.

Ruhul, however, denied his involvement in the attack.

2 drivers killed

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Dinajpur

Two drivers of battery-run three-wheelers were found murdered in Dinajpur and Naogaon yesterday.

The deceased were Moin Uddin, 27, son of Alauddin Mia, a resident of Baznahar village in Biral upazila of Dinajpur, and Abdul Khaleque, son of Hurmat Ali of Donail village in Badalgachhi upazila of Naogaon.

Police said Moin went out of the house with his easy-bike on Monday night and did not return.

Villagers spotted Moin's body under a culvert at Teghra village and informed police, who recovered the body and sent it to M Abdur Rahim Medical College Hospital for autopsy.

Away in Naogaon, family members said Khaleque left his home with the auto-rickshaw on Monday night and remained missing since then.

The following morning, local people found his body inside a bamboo cluster at Modhupur village in Badalgachhi upazila.

Being informed, police recovered Khaleque's body and sent it to Naogaon General Hospital for autopsy, Officer-in-Charge of Badalgachhi Police Station Jalal Uddin said.

Police suspect that criminals might have killed both the drivers and took away their vehicles.
