Meanwhile, seeking anonymity, an official of Chittagong district police said they are collecting information about BNP leaders and Jamaat-Shibir activists who had plotted subversive activities during the BNP-Jamaat blockade earlier.

strength and they bring hopes when they smile. "It's our responsibility to protect them."

He has used his talent, voice and platform to help support various UNHCR campaigns, including #WithRefugees and the Nansen Refugee Award, at which he performed in 2017.

Responding to a question on Bangladesh, Miyavi said, "To be honest, this country is not that much rich compared to other countries. But it is really, really generous to open their border. It is really impressive."

Terming the Rohingya crisis a very old one, he laid emphasis on permanent solution to the crisis and sought role from all.

"In the camp, we met an old man who came to Bangladesh in 1992. He went back to Myanmar in 1995. He came back again to Bangladesh after 20 years," Miyavi said, seeking a permanent solution to the crisis.

He said the Rohingyas living in Bangladesh want to go back to their homeland but they want to see that a conducive environment is created in the Rakhine State so that they can return home safely.

Commenting on his first Bangladesh visit, he said it was really impressive and successful. "It's very important to come here before I start my world tour. We can start creating something new. Now I want to let people know around the world about the situation what I witnessed in the camps."

"It's our responsibility to keep supporting them (Rohingyas)," Miyavi added.

Miyavi's ongoing promotion of UNHCR's global work on his social media channels has helped raise awareness of the refugee cause with a much wider audience. He has been particularly vocal on the need for refugee children to receive quality education.

He was appointed as a UNHCR goodwill ambassador in November 2017.

In 2015, Miyavi undertook his first visit to learn about UNHCR's frontline work, travelling to Lebanon and performing his song "The Others" with refugees he met there.

The music video was released in 2016 -- directed and produced by UNHCR Special Envoy Angelina Jolie and Miyavi -- featuring refugees from around the globe.

Miyavi visited Lebanon again in 2016 to learn more about refugees' experiences, as well as Thailand in 2017 to meet Karen refugees from Myanmar.
