

HAPPILY, ALBEIT, NOT EVER AFTER

We all need happiness, like we need oxygen, water, food, roof over our heads. But there's a fundamentally wrong understanding of happiness that's perpetuated since we're children: "happily ever after", an all-too-familiar phrase found at the end of virtually every fairy tale.

Let's face it, with each passing day we're turning this world into a bigger open sewer. Children growing up in this world with the expectations of living happily ever after are in for the rudest awakening, and they deserve a heartfelt conversation on what happiness and sadness are.

Adults should realise – and in turn help children understand – that happiness is not perpetual. Happiness is a constant work in progress. If you got the blues, know that it does get better but there's no happily better ever after. The only thing we can do is try to be better-equipped to handle whatever life throws at us.

– Karim Waheed, Editor, SHOUT

APP REVIEW

The Ultimate Lyrics Dispensary

RASHEED KHAN

Platforms: Android & iOS

Having a hard time listening to what the vocalist is saying? Are thoughts of those pesky lyrics keeping you up at night? Then you do yourself a disservice by not downloading the "Genius" app.

While originally only a website, Genius has also added a very user-friendly app. Just search up the song name, and voilà! Genius has a massive library that even includes songs that DON'T have lyrics, so don't worry about not finding a song.

If that isn't enough for you, they also display a massive amount of available details for every song. This includes: song producers, the writers, person on each instrument, album of origin, and even a song description at the page's top. Taking it a step further, each highlighted lyrics come with annotations and interpretations, kept fresh by various contributors. All this can be saved for offline use. And to top it all off, they may even give Shazam a run for their money because they can identify songs through the phone mic, which is so accurate that it identified 'Goodbye Sky' by Head with Wings, a song that came out 15 days ago and only has 2000 views, even though they didn't have a page for it. Seriously, why are you still reading this? Go download it!

THIS WEEK'S HORRORSCOPE

ARIES

Sporadic bouts of sadness lead to a healthy lifestyle.

TAURUS

Agamemnon didn't know it'd end up this way.

GEMINI

Nine inch nails are impractically long.

CANCER

Dorothy was right but Alex, you need to fix your hair.

LEO

West Bromwich Albion gives you palpitation, and it's warranted.

VIRGO

It may take a long time for you to understand but.

LIBRA

Crimea is surprisingly small.

SCORPIO

Hugo liked fries a lot until he became Huge.

SAGITTARIUS

Eskimos hug you when they're warm because you're that cold.

CAPRICORN

Saline water is unfit for drinking, saline people for love.

AQUARIUS

You tell me, man. What ARE we doing?

PISCES

As far as you're concerned, no.

freedom
teens
Sanitary Napkin

টিনএজারদের জন্য এলো দেশের প্রথম
cottony soft স্যানিটারি ন্যাপকিন

ফ্রিডম টিন্স তোমাকে really বোঝে