

SONAM KAPOOR changed her name!

The wedding of Sonam Kapoor and Anand Ahuja was a star-studded gathering, ushering in many Bollywood personalities under the same roof. While fans have had their share of gushes and squeals at the much talked-about ceremony, there were a few "critics" who decided to leave a bitter aftertaste regarding Sonam Kapoor's decision to change her last name. That's right; Sonam Kapoor is now Sonam Kapoor Ahuja, as indicated by her sudden name change on social media. Some individuals quickly jumped in to criticize Sonam of this name change, suggesting that a self-proclaimed feminist like her should have never done such a thing. Sonam wasted no time in jumping to a response, saying that it was entirely her own choice to keep both her father's name (Kapoor) and her husband's name (Ahuja). "Anand has also changed his name, but nobody is talking about that. I changed my name on social media to reflect exactly the fact that I have made a choice by myself. Nobody put a gun to my head," stated the famed actor. It is to be noted that Anand Ahuja is now known as Anand S Ahuja on social media, with the "S" apparently indicating his wife's name, "Sonam".

Be Careful of 'The Accidental Prime Minister'

The veteran actor Anupam Kher, who plays the role of former Prime Minister Dr Manmohan Singh in The Accidental Prime Minister, says that this is going to be the most difficult film of his career. Since Dr Manmohan Singh is a very notable individual and people know him for a long time, Kher has to internalize the character to get every nuance right. The film is based on the book of the same name, authored by Sanjay Baru, who served as the media advisor of Manmohan Singh from 2004-2008. Kher will be approaching the character from an actor's point of view. The film will be made in both English and Hindi by debutant Vijay Ratnakar Gutte and will be produced by Bohra Brothers. Since Kher has been vocal about various issues on social media, people repeatedly ask him to join politics. Dismissing the idea, Kher states that he does not want to join politics at the moment. "If that ever happens I will scream from rooftops as I would need people," said the actor, "Currently, the idea is to say NO to joining politics!"
