CANNES'18

Cannes, the time of the year when we get to see our favourite celebrities on the red carpet, all with their stunning makeovers! Some celebs like to keep it simple, some love it glam while the others go completely out of the box and pull off something incredibly mind-blowing! And today, we're sharing some of our favourite looks from the 2018 Cannes Film Festival. And to help you recreate your favourite ones, we'll also be breaking down each and every one of the looks so that it gets even easier for you. So, pick your inspiration and start taking notes!

Bella Hadid's Fresh Spring Glam

Bella Hadid is known (and loved) for her simple makeup, and this look was no exception. But the stand-out for this is the monochromatic blush tones all across her crease, cheeks as well on the lips. The tones are not just tying her look together, but also making it look super fresh and spring appropriate! The highlighted inner corners and long natural lashes are making her eyes look big and awake. The contoured nose and cheeks are bringing back some dimension, still keeping the look very natural.

To achieve this makeover, use similar tones on your crease, cheeks and lips. You can use blush tones like Bella did, or even go for warm tones (for more of a summery vibe) or even nude (a Kim K staple). Keep the eyes very minimal, use a satin lipstick and a bright champagne shimmer shade for the inner corners.

Joan Small's Bold Liner Look

This look is one of our favourites because of how simple yet striking it is. Joan kept it very simple and neutral, with a matte base, nude lips and chiselled cheeks. The star of her look is this beautiful turquoise eyeliner; which added the perfect pop of colour, turning this typical look into something unique. She kept her lower lash bare, keeping all the drama limited to her upper lid.

To get this look, pair your everyday neutral makeup with a colourful, dramatic winged liner. You may use any bright shade of your choice for the wing.

Sara Sampaio's Hot Summer Glam

For Spring/Summer, nothing can truly beat a hot red-orange lip! And Sara Sampaio is here to remind us why this shade has always been an OG! She paired this bold lipstick with a very subtle, brown cut-crease, defined yet natural-looking eyebrows, accentuated inner corners and coral, flushed cheekbones. The best thing about this look in particular is that on our Bengali warm, golden skin tones, it can look extremely flattering! Seriously, we're bottomline obsessed!

To achieve this look, do a brown cut-crease (with precise blending brush), don't use a concealer to keep it subtle like hers, use a lighter brown or bone shade on the lid, champagne highlighter on the inner corners, a coral blush and any red-orange lipstick you own!

Kendall Jenner's Smokey Cateye

Kendall Jenner went for a minimal-glam look for her debut on the red carpet. She wore a full coverage base makeup and kept the overall look very neutral and glowy. A subtle highlight, soft contour and a satin nude blush paired with overlined, plump nude lips couldn't suit her more! She kept her eyes soft yet captivating by using a black eyeshadow to get the smokey, winged liner effect.

To get her look, just use any black eyeshadow to draw the soft, smokey winged line. Overline your lips with a nude lip pencil and apply a nude lipstick that's slightly darker than your skin tone. Finish off by highlighting your cheekbones with a light hand and applying a nude blush (light-brown eyeshadow would do too!)
