

Srabanti's broken marriage

Ipshita Shabnam Srabanti, a model turned actress has recently come into the limelight for her broken relationship. The Wrong Number famed actress married Khorshed Alam, an employee of Bangladeshi TV channel NTV on 29th October, 2010. After this she bid goodbye to the showbiz industry and started leading a simple family life in America. Almost forgotten by the nation, this year she returned to her country with a heavy heart burdened with the dismay of her married life falling apart. To everyone's surprise she has been quite outspoken about the problems in her relationship on social media and had also been seen seeking an apology from her husband. Srabanti's husband filed for divorce on 7th May, 2018 which led Srabanti to file charges against him. The couple has two daughters together, Rabiya Alam and Arshita Alam. This was her second marriage after her divorce with Partho Barua.

DRAKE'S old love reigniting?

Drake's new album Scorpion has dropped like a missile in tinsel town, as he cleared up many speculations in the lyrics of his songs. Though he did not take a name directly, but The Grammy winner rapper has left fans enough clues to draw their own conclusions. While through Emotionless he almost revealed clearly about him having a son with adult-film actress-turned-painter Sophie Brussaux, some lines of the song Finesse of this album, "I want my baby to have your eyes, I'm going against my own advice / Should I do New York? I can't decide / Fashion Week is more your thing than mine," has enshrined Bella Hadid and their rumored past fling (according to his fans). His reference to Gigi Hadid cleared up the air more when he rapped "You stay on my mind / You and your sister too hot to handle." Though Bella Hadid completely denied and expressed utter disappointment on the whole scenario, but it only left the prying audience to question more. Is history repeating itself? Bella was reportedly caught on a dinner-date with The Weeknd aka Abel Tesfaye with whom her on and off relationships are always in talks. Last fall, rumors about Bella and Drake not only made an awkward situation between the two but also ruined her weekend. But recent reports are making fans question, 'Is the old love re-igniting?' Only time will tell.

RANBIR-ALIA DATING?

Talks of Ranbir-Alia romance are in the air for some time now. To many, it may come as a surprise with lots of speculations, but for the ones following B-talks regularly, this may seem like something else is brewing up. Ranbir's breakup with Katrina followed by his sudden closeness with his Brahmastra co-star is not something new for Bollywood. But what is intriguing here are the well-known friendship between Alia and Katrina as well as the not-so-spoken Siddhart-Alia duo. The new rumored couple has been spotted together in many sites from Sonam Kapoor's wedding to the Razi star's Juhu residence. While Alia has always been very outspoken about her crush on Ranbir Kapoor, Ranbir's slight hints are also quite evident. But are all these revelations only a mere publicity stunt for the upcoming movie or is there much more to it – the question still remains. The former partners of the new duo are yet to comment on the whole matter. Alia and Ranbir are working together in Ayan Mukherji's Brahmastra, which also stars Amitabh Bachchan. The movie is set to release in the middle of next year.

