

Taaga Man- a millennial fashion dream

Catering to the young millennials of the urban society, Taaga Man has inaugurated its first outlet together with Taaga on 2nd August. The 3500 square feet store, located at the heart of Satmasjid Road, Dhanmondi, Dhaka, is every fashionista's dream. With a futuristic ambience and a unique collection of trendy fusion-wear, Taaga Man opts for contemporary designs while still retaining the classic ethnic vibe that its parent-brand, Aarong, is best known for.

The inauguration ceremony, which was attended by popular social media personalities and social elites, consisted of an overview of the sub-brand Taaga. The launch party specifically focused on how Taaga Man aims to revolutionise men's fashion. The guests were then allowed an exclusive tour of the outlet.

"We have big plans and we definitely aim on reaching high!" explains Tamara Abed, senior director of Aarong, "For now, Taaga Man will be available at existing Aarong outlets of Uttara, Jamuna Future Park, Bashundhara City, Mirpur 12, and Mymensingh."

With a chic collection of apprals, footwear, jewellery, and other accessories for both women and men, the store specifically caters to the fashion tastes of this generation. From casual everyday wears to formal attire, this is the ultimate go-to place for a fashion fix. Keeping the heat in mind, the colours are light with minimalist motifs for a sleek look.

"We wanted to create something that would be a voice for the youth specifically. Our designs follow global trends, specially taking inspiration from London Fashion
