Detecting cancer in 5 minutes

SUST researchers say they've devised a new blood test that can spot the disease for only Tk 500

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

A team of researchers of Shahjalal University of Science and Technology (SUST) has found a low-cost method for early detection of cancer. For detecting cancer, all that they would need is blood samples and a device they have designed. The device would subject blood samples to intense laser beams and analyse results to detect cancer and the test would take five minutes and cost just Tk 500.
