National Professor Anisuzzaman speaks at the memorial meeting, held at the Bangladesh National Museum.

Looking back at a legacy

Memorial programme for Golam Sarwar

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

His work left a legacy of ethical journalism, journalism with love for the country, society and above all spirit of the Liberation War, speakers said at a memorial meeting for recently-passed Samakal Editor Golam Sarwar.

At the age of 75, Sarwar breathed his last at Singapore General Hospital with his wife and children by his side on August 13.

The path lit by him is now guiding the journey of the Bangla daily when "he is no more with us", said the newspaper's acting editor Mustafiz Shafi at the event held at Bangladesh National Museum in the capital's Shahbagh.

Golam Sarwar earned respect through hard work and commitment to journalism, and attained the editorship of the much-esteemed daily, said Prof Emeritus Anisuzzaman, reminiscing the days when Sarwar was one of his students at Dhaka University.

Guests at the programme -- renowned politicians, cultural personalities, editors, economists -- spoke of how they had come to know Sarwar from the days when he worked at Bangla daily Ittefaq, became a founding editor of Jugantor in 1999 and then Samakal in 2005, and about his sincerity, affection and easy-going personality.

An essay written by him from his publication "Amar Joto Kotha" was read out to the audience.

Born in 1943 in Banaripara of Barishal, Sarwar in the write-up laid out his emotion for the city, Dhaka, as he had seen in his childhood and then as a university student in the 1960s

"He [Sarwar] blended journalism with literature," said economist and former governor of Bangladesh Bank, Atiur Rahman. "He was an institution. An optimistic person, he used to bring out stories of Bangladesh's success in his Samakal every day."

He will rest in peace if young journalists follow the path shown by him, Atiur added.

Partisan perspectives are very conspicuous now in the media, but objective journalism works for welfare of the country's people, which Sarwar had done throughout his accomplished career, said cultural personality Syed Hasan Imam.

Noted journalist and columnist Syed Abul Maksud and thespian Mamunur Rashid, among others, also spoke at the programme.

Taking bribe

Minister Saifuzzaman Shekhor to take money from the nomination seekers, the Rab press release added.

He also obtained money illegally from job seekers of different government offices including Bangladesh Railway and Bangladesh Police, it said.

Sazzad was found running campaigns for Mansur Rahman, a nomination seeker, witnesses and local BCL men alleged.

Contacted, Mansur Rahman, president of Rajshahi district Swadhinata Chikitsak Parishad, a pro-AL body of doctors, refused the allegations and said Sazzad has been supporting him for last four years.

"His arrest is a conspiracy of my rivals," Mansur Rahman, also the district AL unit's health affairs secretary, added.

Meanwhile, Merajul Islam, president of BCL's Rajshahi unit, said, "We requested the central committee to expel him after his arrest".

Three years on, little progress

It also directed the HC to hold the rehearing and dispose of Maya's appeal.

The ACC had filed the case against Maya, also a leader of ruling Awami League, with Sutrapur Police Station on June 13, 2007.

The three appeals that the HC disposed of were filed by former BNP leader Nazmul Huda and his wife Sigma Huda, former BNP lawmakers Hafiz Ibrahim and Monjurul Ahsan Munshi.

On November 8 last year, the HC commuted the sentence of Nazmul Huda to four years from seven years after rehearing his appeal in a bribery case filed during the 2007-08 caretaker government's rule.

About Sigma Huda's three-year sentence, the court said it would consider served since she had served time in jail during the trial process.

On February 6 this year, the HC upheld the three years' prison sentence of Hafiz Ibrahim for concealing information about his wealth. A lower court awarded him the punishment in 2008.

The HC said his sentence would also be considered served as he had been in prison for more than two years during the trial.

The lower court had sentenced him to 10 years for amassing wealth illegally. The HC acquitted Hafiz of the charge. The ACC filed the case with Gulshan Police Station on May 8, 2007.

On May 16 last year, the HC upheld its earlier verdict that acquitted Monjurul Ahsan of acquiring wealth illegally and concealing information about his properties. He had been sentenced to 13 years' imprisonment by a court.

The SC first scrapped the acquittal of Iqbal Hasan Mahmud Tuku and sent his appeal to the HC for rehearing on January 27, 2014. Then the apex court passed similar orders about other accused on different days considering that the HC may not have evaluated relevant evidence and allegations against the accused properly, court sources said.

The other accused whose acquittal were cancelled by the top court include former BNP state minister Iqbal Hasan Mahmood Tuku, BNP leader Mir Mohammad Nasiruddin and his son Mir Helal Uddin, Awami League lawmaker Haji Mohammad Selim, former BNP state minister Amanullah Aman and his wife Sabera Aman, former AL lawmaker Joynal Abedin Hazari, Hafiz Ibrahim's wife Mafuza Sultana, former AL lawmaker Mockbul Hossain and his wife Fatema Tahera Khanam, former commissioner of customs Jahurul Haque and his wife Afa Haque, and former Islami Oikya Jote lawmaker Mufti Shahidul Islam.

where traffic system is still maintained by raising hands.

"For any ideal city, there should be 25 percent [area of] road to implement a good traffic system, whereas we have only eight percent. That's why a fair traffic system didn't grow here," he added.

The debate competition on role of drivers in road accidents was organised by Debate for Democracy, and presided by its chairman Hassan Ahmed Chowdhury Kiron.

Kiron said death on roads have been increasing due to the reckless driving, unfit vehicles and unplanned road and high-ways, where slow-moving vehicles like Nosimon-Korimon are still plying.

Competition among drivers and their long working hours make the situation more susceptible to road crashes, he added.

Bangladesh University of Business and Technology won the competition, beating the team of Stamford University.
