FARHAN'S new love

Not declaring romance is a well-known trend in Bollywood. Farhan Akhtar and Shibani Dandekar are on the list of secret lovers as well. But this can never stop the paparazzis from speculating about their untold romance, reporters from capturing them together and fans calling them one of the most gorgeous looking couples in the industry. Divorce without a tiff

Divorces are a regular thing in tinsel town, but this time it's a little unusual than the rest – it is dignified and hassle-free. Chris Pratt and Anna Faris are officially separated. They had signed final documents pertaining to their split weeks ago and were only waiting for the judge to make it official. They have dismissed the whole matter under a private judge to keep it low-key. Matters like choosing joint custody, no spousal support, a unique living arrangement, no child support and a joint bank account for Jack's expenses have made this divorce an easy and peaceful process for both of them as well as for their child. "We still have love for each other, will always cherish our time together and continue to have the deepest respect for one another", 41 year old Faris has stated on her social media account when the couple decided to part their ways.
