Ayesha said at least 281 women and girls faced various types of violence including rape, murder and sexual assault in November this year.

In her speech, BMP General Secretary Maleka Banu said the political parties that are going to contest the upcoming election should promise to nominate female candidates in 100 constituencies.

Marking the 138th birthday of Begum Rokeya yesterday, Banu said the dreams of Rokeya can be realised through ensuring a disparity-free society for all.

She urged the countrymen not to cast vote for the candidates involved in war crimes during 1971, and demanded a womenfriendly government in the 11th parliament. Rekha Chowdhury, acting movement secretary of BMP, read out a paper containing demands including ensuring women's security during election, putting an end to violence against women, ensuring a non-communal state, prohibition of the use of religion centring the election, and ensuring human rights.

Son held for killing father

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Gazipur

Police yesterday arrested a youth for killing his father and injuring his mother and elder brother in Kaliganj upazila of Gazipur.

The arrestee was identified as Naquib Hasan Hridoy, 18, said Abu Bakar Miah, officer-in-charge of Kaliganj Police Station.

Hridoy killed his father Abdul Hye, by stabbing and hitting him in the head with a rod, the OC said quoting family members. When his mother and brother came to stop him, Hridoy also injured both of them with the rod.

Hridoy has been mentally imbalanced for the last four or five years, locals said. He was detained by the neighbours and handed over to police.

Meanwhile, Abdul Hye was taken to Kaliganj upazila health complex where he was declared dead.

The number of child marriage is higher in many districts, said Ubaidur Rob, country director of the Population Council, adding, "Submission of Primary Education Completion (PEC) certificate should be made compulsory during marriage registration. This will make it difficult to manipulate the age of a girl."

Humaira Farhanaz, UNFPA's national programme officer for gender, adolescent and youth, said, "Lessons on sexual and reproductive health and women's rights should be emphasised in schools." Once an underage girl is married off, she is not allowed to continue school usually, with the belief that she could be influenced by her unmarried peers.

Taslima Yasmin, an assistant professor of law department of Dhaka University, said,

"There should be a monitoring cell in magistrate court to assess how many injunction order and penalty charges have been made against child marriage."

The death sparked protests by two groups over the last week. One of them, demanding justice for Aritry, postponed their demonstrations on Thursday, after being assured that their six-point demand would be fulfilled.

Meanwhile, another group started demonstrating from Thursday demanding Hasna Hena's release, claiming that she was not involved in the incident.

Yesterday, around 200 current and former students some teachers and guardians took position near the entrance of the institution in the capital's Bailey Road around 9:00am.

The students began a hunger strike from 11:00am, which they ended around 12:50pm after teachers convinced them not to wage any movement, as there was still a legal way to release Hasna Hena.

Earlier, a three-member representative team of students submitted a memorandum to the education ministry, demanding release and withdrawal of Hena, they said.
