NAT'L POLLS HC questions EC's decision to let 25 Jamaat men contest

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The High Court yesterday directed the Election Commission (EC) to dispose of, in three working days, the application filed for cancellation of candidacies of 25 Jamaat-e-Islami men in the December 30 general election.

The court also issued a rule asking the EC and government to explain in four weeks why the EC's decision to allow the 25 candidates to contest the election despite the cancellation of their party's registration should not be declared illegal.

In the rule, the court also asked the EC and government to show causes why the commission should not be directed to cancel their candidacies, Deputy Attorney General Alamin Sarker told The Daily Star.

The bench of Justice Md Ashfaul Islam and Justice Mohammad Ali delivered the order and rule following a writ petition filed by representatives of Bangladesh Tarikat Federation and Amra Muktiyoddhar Sontan, seeking cancellation of the commission's decision to allow leaders of Jamaat-e-Islami to contest the polls.

Barrister Tania Amir appeared for the writ petitioners. The petitioners had submitted an application to the EC on Monday, to cancel candidacies of the Jamaat men.

On October 28 this year, the EC issued a gazette notification, scrapping the registration of Jamaat-e-Islami, a component of the BNP-led 20-party alliance.

The HC in a landmark verdict on August 1, 2013, had declared illegal Jamaat's registration with the EC. The commission the same year had suspended the registration.

Jamaat then filed the appeal with the apex court challenging the HC verdict, which is pending with the SC now.

Will fulfill expectations of first-time voters: PM

BSS, Dhaka

Prime Minister and Awami League President Sheikh Hasina yesterday pledged to fulfill the expectations of first-time voters and take the country forward by boosting their talents.

"We want to materialise the dream and expectations of the new voters... and also want to take the country ahead by enhancing their talents," she said.

The prime minister made the statement while addressing rallies in Bandarban and Kishoreganj through video-conferencing from her residence Sudha Sadan in the capital's Dhanmondi.

She termed the youth of Bangladesh "very intelligent" and said, "...we commit to build a beautiful future for them."

Referring to her recent programme with the youths, "Let's Talk with Sheikh Hasina," she said, "I asked them about what kind of Bangladesh they want to see and how they want to develop the country if one of them became the prime minister."

The premier said that in its election manifesto, Awami League has given utmost importance to youths as they are the strength of the country.

Seeking vote for "boat" (Awami League's electoral symbol) in the upcoming national election, Sheikh Hasina said, "We earned independence by casting vote for boat."

The prime minister also said, "Bangladesh started its journey towards massive development when we assumed office in 1996 after 21 years."

"Development reaches the common people when the Awami League is elected," Sheikh Hasina added.

EC indifferent to attacks on opposition candidates: TIB

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Transparency International Bangladesh (TIB) yesterday expressed concern over Election Commission's (EC) "inaction" in addressing rampant violation of electoral codes and harassment of opposition parties' candidates.

Issuing a press statement, TIB urged the EC to take effective and visible measures immediately in order to ensure a level-playing field for all political parties in the election.

It also called upon the law enforcement agencies to play a neutral role and earn people's trust.

TIB Executive Director Iftekharuzzaman, in the statement, said the EC's failure to put a stop to attacks and harassment -- through filing cases and intimidation -- on the opposition party leaders and activists as well as its indifference in this regard has turned into a matter of concern.

"The opposition parties are not only being oppressed by the ruling party [Awami League] men, they are also facing discriminatory behaviour from law enforcement agencies," he said, citing news reports.

The TIB chief also alleged that the EC is responsible for the law enforcement agencies' failure to play a neutral role ahead of the election.

"Apart from making some empty promises, the Election Commission is yet to set an example of creating a level playing field, which is very embarrassing," he said in the statement.

Criticising the EC's decision to limit live broadcast from inside the polling centres, the anti-corruption campaigner said that live broadcast was allowed in some previous polls.

He also termed the ban on using mobile phones at the polling centres a "sign of weakness" of the EC and a self-contradictory stance.

Eminent citizens dismayed by EC's performance

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Eminent citizens yesterday said the Election Commission (EC) was not performing in line with its constitutional duty, and that it has created scope for tainting the process of the upcoming polls.

They pointed at the EC's inadequate steps to deal with pre-election violent incidents and said this could lead to a questionable election on December 30 and post-election crisis.

The observations came from a seminar organised by Centre for Governance Studies (CGS), an organisation working for good governance, at the Bangladesh Institute of International and Strategic Studies auditorium in the capital.

The seminar, on "The Challenges of Electoral Integrity in Bangladesh", is part of CGS' series of events on the polls, featuring experts from various fields including good governance campaigners, political and security analysts, and former diplomats.

Referring to challenges for a peaceful election, Barrister Manzoor Hasan, executive director of Centre for Peace and Justice at Brac University, said the EC should equitably distribute 'space' to political parties so that voters can cast votes freely and fairly.

Presenting a paper on the topic, he said the EC itself becomes the 'interim government' prior to the election and it should take a pro-active role in running the administration.

Former election commissioner Brig Gen (retd) M Sakawat Hussain said against complaints of violent incidents, the EC could have applied article 91E of the Representation of the People Order-1972.

The article empowers the EC to cancel candidature of any candidate, upon finding involvement of them or their agent or any other person on their behalf in such incidents.

Sakawat also said a big challenge before the incumbent government is to prove that an "unquestionable election" can be held under an elected government and with continuation of the parliament.

"This is the time to establish it," he said, adding if such thing does not happen then "we have to go back to square one."

Speakers at a rally yesterday urged the Election Commission (EC) and authorities concerned to ensure public security and protect the minorities from possible violence centring the upcoming national election.
