

YOUR TIME HAS COME

Another issue, another year, another editorial. For the next few days everyone – if not randomly generated applications and bots – will be asking questions like “So, how did 2018 go for you?” and “So, how will 2019 be like?”

Sad but true, most of us don't want to answer the first, and no one knows the answer to the second. Maybe the resolutions didn't work out this year, but don't let that stop you from making that solo trip. Want to start eating healthy starting day one? Don't let all the biryani weigh you down. Pretty sure my 2019 won't go as planned [disclaimer: I have no plans], but I can totally give you wholesome advice here: be yourself, what you are, like a stone.

Lastly, if applicable, exercise your right to vote. Even if that's the only workout you'll do this year.
