

Their western wear consists of neat designs with subtle colours, upholding the essence of winter. Twelve's blazers are a clear standout, with their minimal designs harmonising well with every event you have lined up for this season of festivities.

For those of you who are always on the go, opt for their bomber jackets for they are easy to style and a definite attraction. Be sure to catch everybody's attention in them.

And their denim jackets are something that you just can't keep your eyes off of! Bringing in the rustic vibe, their washed out denim jackets is a great indication of how elaborate Twelve's winter line is. It has recently been seen that writings embroidered on the back of jackets have caught a growing trend; Twelve has made sure that it includes this worldwide frenzy and come up with its own unique designs giving you all the more reasons to get your hands on them.

"Two years ago, I bought my very first bomber jacket from Twelve, and since then, they have become my go-to brand," says Mohaimin, an undergraduate student of North South University. He further adds, "Being a student, I have to allocate a small portion of my budget on clothing. Twelve's affordable prices allow me to get myself 3-4 pieces every time I shop!"

Twelve is the embodiment of the nation's youth, and why not? Their range of affordable products, the sheer variations in their collection speaks volumes about them. This year's winter collection has all the ingredients to make sure that you look stylish and carry yourself with utmost confidence.
