

WIFE VS MOM

Who's Scarier?

Actor Abhishek Bachchan and his sister, Shweta Bachchan Nanda made their appearance on Koffee with Karan, the hit talk show hosted by Karan Johar. During the show, Karan went deep and personal yet again by asking Abhishek about who he is most afraid of. His answer was his mother, but Shweta was quick to interject and revealed how it is actually his wife, Aishwarya, who scares him the most. Hopefully, Aishwarya has taken this well and did not give him an actual reason to be afraid.

GOES TO AN EGG!

The record holder with over eighteen million likes on Instagram, Kylie Jenner, has finally been dethroned. The record-holding post was a picture of her daughter Stormi, holding Kylie's thumb with her small fingers. However, there is a new record holder now, who has surpassed the eighteen million and is still rising. The most surprising thing is, the post is just a picture of a brown egg. The account, from which the picture was posted, is called @world_record_egg, which was created with the sole purpose of defeating Kylie. However, the egg story does not end there. Jenner responded to losing her record with a post on Instagram, in which she cracked an egg onto a hot road. It is no secret that the Kardashians and Jenners are the most hated celebrities on the planet. Perhaps, the purpose of the egg is to prove just how hated they are that people will even like the picture of an egg to rub it in their faces.

OSCARS

without Chris Rock

Comedian Chris Rock, who had previously hosted the Oscars back in 2005 and 2016, has stated that he has no interest in hosting the ceremony any longer. At the New York Film Critics Circle (NYFCC) Awards dinner in Manhattan, Chris said, "Steve Martin is here. You should host the Oscars. You're the best. Steve Martin should host the Oscars! Because I am not doing it, goddammit! You are not getting me." This incident may lead many to believe that maybe Chris was somehow discontent with the Academy, seeing how hosting the award ceremony is one of the most prestigious things in show business.
