

PARTY platters

We love a good party, but unlike the event, the preparations for it are never a blast. From cooking the countless dishes to tidying up before and after, being a host is no small feat. However, there are lots of shortcuts you can take, but our favourite hack is 'party platters.' With the right ingredients —most of which don't require cooking— and strategic plating, party platters can easily be the prettiest and tastiest way to please guests. From cheese to chocolate to dip galore, these no-fuss party platters are definitely worth celebrating.