Clooney's divorce: rumour or truth?

There have been some rumours about George Clooney and Amal Clooney being on the way to divorce, after four years of marriage. Others claim that the story is made up and can't be any farther from the truth. So what is the truth? The rumours started when a source claimed that Amal had kept the children away from their father, on the Italian island of Sardinia. This was followed by other rumours about problems in their marriage. However, George's rep has denied all the rumours. The couple seem to be blissfully in love, without any difficulties as they were seen in multiple award shows, showing support for each other. So, it might seem that things are going well in the Clooney household and the rumours were only spread to spark controversy.

WEDDING BELLS in the Jenner household

Model, entrepreneur, Instagram star, you name it, Kylie Jenner does it all. Now she is to get married soon as well. The 21 year old star is set to planning her wedding, taking place very soon, with rapper and father of her daughter, Travis Scott. Although she wants to get married quickly, she's "taking marriage at a more cautious pace after seeing her sisters' past relationships fail", as a source claims. Seeing as she's getting married at 21, there may be some doubt about her being 'cautious'. Nevertheless, the couple seems to be happy. Travis even shared his thoughts about a family, "We felt like this is something special. And kids are something we kind of talked about when we were getting busy."
