This is the most beautiful of all fairs: Zafar Iqbal

MATHEWS CHIRAN

For bookworms in Bangladesh, the name of Prof Muhammed Zafar Iqbal is synonymous with science fiction.

The eminent professor continues to enthrall booklovers of various ages through his writings.

Every year, readers eagerly await the Amar Ekushy Grantha Mela for his new books to hit the stalls. The joy of reading also increases manifold when the readers get to meet their favourite author in person.

Yesterday was no different.

For the first time, the renowned author visited this year's book fair in the afternoon.

He was surrounded by readers who were taking his autographs as well as selfies with him.

The good professor happily complied.

Though busy, Prof Iqbal spared some time for this correspondent when he approached him on the Suhrawardy Udyan premises.

"I want everyone to read books," he said. "I expect the youths to read books... Stop spending time on Facebook and spend more time reading."

"Leave the 'face' from 'Facebook'... just books no Facebook... alright?" he said to this correspondent with a smile. On a serious note, Prof Iqbal said if someone does not read books they cannot be a "complete" person.

"Then again, this has become a global issue. More and more young people are reading less these days." He said there is a difference between browsing through and reading a book. One should take time and relish the joy of reading.

While talking to this newspaper, Prof Iqbal was approached by a teenager, Joyutu. The tenth-grader said he came to the book fair for the first time with his father from Barishal. He wanted Prof Iqbal to sign "Niyan", a new science fiction written by the professor.

He also wanted to take a selfie. Prof Iqbal smiled and obliged.

Prof Iqbal said, "Every time I visit the book fair, I genuinely feel happy. Among all the fairs, 'boi mela' is the most beautiful one."

This year, different publication houses including Kakoli, Somoy and Tamralipi brought out books written by him.

"Obishashsho Sundar Prithibi" from Kakoli, "Ek Dozon Ekjon" from Somoy and "Niyan" by Tamralipi are drawing readers' attention at the fair. Besides, his old works are also much sought-after.

Yesterday, a total of 161 new books hit the fair.

EVICITION ON BURIGANGA

290 more structures knocked down

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Bangladesh Inland Water Transport Authority (BIWTA) yesterday knocked down 290 structures -- including three two-storey buildings -- in the city's Islambagh of Lalbagh yesterday, as part of their ongoing drive to demolish illegal establishments along the Buriganga river.

A mobile court led by Joint Director of BIWTA AKM Arif Uddin started the sixth day's drive, stretching from Loharpool to Kamalbagh from around 10:30am till 4pm.

With the numbers, a total of 1,198 structures have been knocked down so far in the drive, which will be continued for seven more working days.

On the sixth day, BIWTA demolished three two-storey buildings, 23 semi-concrete buildings and 257 tin-shed structures.

BIWTA had earlier identified 906 illegal structures along the bank of the river, stretching from Sadarghat to Gabtoli, but during the drive found the number to be higher.

They started a 13-day drive on January 29 to evict all illegal structures and free Buriganga from encroachers.

The joint director of BIWTA said influential people are behind the encroachment.

"We will not bow down to anybody and will demolish every illegal structure; we are getting the support of administration, judiciary and people," said Arif.

The joint director said Bangladesh Inland Water Transport Authority will continue the drive for seven more days to free the rivers surrounding the capital.

Under a new project, the government will install some 12,000 demarcation pillars along Dhaka rivers, to protect those from encroachers.

A tender for the work is expected to be floated by this month, and work of pillar installation may begin in the next three months.

The government has already appointed a consultant to implement the Tk 850 crore project.

Under the new project, the government will build some 50km of walkways, plant trees along the walkways and set up three eco-parks at Shinnirtek, Tongi and Ashulia.

The authorities will also build 19 jetties, including at Amin Bazar, Gabtoli, Kanchpur, Tanbazar, Machuwa Bazar, and Khanpur.

Rizvi invites Obaidul Quader to join BNP

UNB, Dhaka

BNP senior joint secretary general Ruhul Kabir Rizvi yesterday invited Awami League general secretary Obaidul Quader to join BNP as its adviser, since he has long been giving the party various suggestions.

"The Awami League general secretary is regularly giving BNP various advice at different programmes about what the party should do... he's also saying in advance about decisions of our party, and giving us various suggestions," Rizvi said.

Speaking at a press briefing at BNP's Nayapaltan central office, he further said, "The way he [Quader] is talking about BNP, it seems he wants to join BNP. So, there's no point for him to remain with Awami League now. Rather, I urge him to join BNP, and our party's door is open for him."

The BNP leader said ruling party leaders and activists are passing days with anxiety thinking of the consequences they will have to face for their "misdeeds".

"They are secretly keeping contact with BNP leaders and activists in different areas. Awami League leaders and activists are worried about their future. So, Obaidul Quader and some other leaders are voluntarily trying to be the adviser of BNP."

Rizvi said though their party is not in the parliament, Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina is "spitting venom" against the Zia family in the House.

The BNP leader said no one, except for the prime minister and her party leaders and activists, said the election was free and fair. "Even partners of the grand alliance are saying the voting was held the night before the election. The prime minister's digital hunger for power has snatched democracy."

Access for disabled persons must be ensured everywhere

Speakers tell consultation meeting

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Government should ratify the Marrakesh Treaty immediately to make production and international transfer of specially-adapted books for people with blindness or visual impairments easier, speakers at a consultation meeting said yesterday.

They also urged the government to ensure equal access for people with disabilities to all social services such as infrastructure, communication, transportation, information and technology.

The treaty does so by establishing a set of limitations and exceptions to traditional copyright law.

Manusher Jonno Foundation (MJF), Young Power in Social Action (YPSA), Visually

Impaired People's Society (BVIPS) and Benetech Book Share, the largest online library of accessible ebooks for people with print disabilities, jointly organised the programme.

"Access for persons with disability must be ensured everywhere -- from transportation to toilet to education. We could overcome the challenge only if the society not only accepts them, but also promote accessibility for them," said Shaheen Anam, executive director of MJF in her welcome speech.

Disability rights advocate Vaskkar Bhattacharjee of YPSA and Elizabeth Beaumont, CEO of Benetech Book Share gave separate presentations on accessible books and technology in Bangladesh and global perspective.
