

COVER STORY

She...

Let's not talk about what she should or should not be doing. No more the little one, neither vulnerable, nor weak, nor lesser; not just the next pretty little thing. For those times are over and she does not fight anymore, she prepares for the battle. The ferocity, tenacity, frustration, and truth in her eyes is one that cannot be ignored.

She is here with her reservoirs of talent and power, armoured with weapons of education, empowerment and resilience, gearing to blaze through those sexist, misogynistic and hateful stereotypical shackles that can no longer hold her back.

Realise, she is not a commodity or a vulnerability; listen to her roar that shatters through the glass ceilings.

She is here, empowered, resilient, independent, strong, fearless and powerful. It is time to change, not how we look but how we see.
