

COVER STORY

Bejewelled, DEBONAIR

As we gear up for the next trail of weddings to come, it is time to shine some of that light on men's wedding accessories. There is no doubt that South Asian weddings are all about the bride, but that does not mean grooms cannot be a part of that fun, right?

The trick with men's jewellery is to practice restraint; less is more, but layering is a must for perfection — from jewelled semi-precious studded stones and pearls adorned in the form of necklaces, kalgis, lapel pins, and pocket squares!

Weddings no longer have to be all about what the bride wears for each event, join in the fun, good Sir! Let's talk about a few hold, wedding and reception looks and how to accessorise for them.

As she is gorgeously decked out from head to toe, complementing the bride does not mean that the groom cannot add a little bling to his attire for that extra smidgen of regal glamour!

Photo: Sharear Kabir Heemel

Model: Azim

Make-up: Farzana Shakil's Makeover Salon

Clothing: Niharika Momtaz

Jewellery: 1972

Styling: Sonia Yeasmin Isha & Niharika Momtaz

Location: InterContinental Dhaka

