WILL SMITH'S new movie

Will Smith had recently announced that he will not be returning for the DC-Warner Bros sequel of Suicide Squad. The actor had played the character of Deadshot in the film, and received significant praise for it. However, due to his busy schedule, he will not be acting in the upcoming film. Aside from that, Will is currently busy shooting for the biopic, King Richard, where he will be playing the character of renowned tennis players, Serena and Venus Williams's father. The film is based on the hardships coach Richard Williams faced throughout his life, and his struggle to train his daughters, despite knowing very little about tennis. The film is based on a script by Zach Baylin, with Will himself, as the producer, alongside Tim and Trevor White.

Julianne Moore Fired From 'Can You Ever Forgive Me?'

Julianne Moore is well known for her roles in The Big Lebowski and Children Of Men, which have become classics. She has received several nominations and awards for her roles in various movies, and even won an Oscar for Best Actress. However, such achievements do not automatically guarantee an actor roles in Hollywood films. Julianne is one such example. During an interview on Andy Cohen's show, Watch What Happens Live, she revealed that she never actually abandon her role in Can You Ever Forgive Me?; the director had fired her! Her role was later given to Melissa McCarthy, one of the stars of Bridesmaids. Ironically, however, the director, Nicole Holofcener, was herself replaced by Marielle Heller. When asked about her feelings, Julianne said that while it had hurt her, she understood that they had different expectations from the film.
