

Probe body to investigate irregularities

DU CORRESPONDENT

Dhaka University vice-chancellor Prof Md Akhtaruzzaman yesterday formed a seven-member body to investigate allegations raised by some panels and candidates, regarding Dhaka University Central Students' Union (Ducusu) and hall union polls.

The committee, headed by Supernumerary Professor Sajeda Banu, has been asked to submit its report within seven days.

Four students, who contested independently in the March 11 Ducusu and hall union polls, started a hunger strike on March 12 protesting the alleged irregularities during Ducusu and hall union polls.

On March 16, the students ended their "fast unto death" after authorities assured them of listening to their complaints and making the Ducusu electoral process more transparent.

Brazilian aerospace company Embraer conducted a demonstration flight of their E190-E2 aircraft from Hazrat Shahjalal International Airport yesterday, as part of a world tour. Executives from the company briefed local airline representatives, officials and press about the aircraft's features on the ground, before conducting the flight. The Embraer E190-E2 is classified as a medium range airliner, in the same class as the Airbus A220. The demonstration aircraft sported the vibrant "Profit Hunter" theme.

Outcome of regional under attack in Noymile area of Rangamati's Baghaichhari upazila around 6pm.

The vehicles were returning to Baghaichhari town with election results from Konglak Government Primary School centre under Sajek union.

On Tuesday, Chattogram divisional commissioner formed a seven-member probe committee, headed by the director of local government of Chattogram division, to investigate the incident. "We assume that the attack was an outcome of regional problem. Contestants of the election might have carried out the attack," Nurul Huda said.

CEC claimed that there was no lack of security in Rangamati's Baghaichhari upazila on the day.

"Fearing untoward incident, we deployed army in the area on polling day. No mishap occurred during voting, although there were some attempts," he claimed.

"But it's not possible to guess what might happen at night in the hilly area," he added.

"The attack was stealthy, and the duration was one or two minutes. It's not possible for a force to regroup and launch counter-attack in this short time," Nurul Huda said.

He said each family of the slain victims will be provided Tk 5.50 lakh, while each injured will be given Tk 50,000-1,00,000 for treatment, depending on their conditions.

structures and 103 tin-shed structures.

A total of 2,711 structures have been knocked down so far since the drive began on January 29 and BIWTA also recovered 58 acres of land from encroachers during this time.

BIWTA also fined the encroachers Tk 1.35 lakh.

Arif said they would continue the drive and will resume it from March 25.

Update Climate Fiscal Framework for effective financing

Speakers say at workshop

CITY DESK

The Climate Fiscal Framework, instituted in 2014, should be updated to be more citizen centric, said speakers yesterday at Validation Workshop on Climate Fiscal Framework (CFF), organised by Inclusive Budgeting and Financing for Climate Resilience (IBFCR) project of the Finance Division and United Nations Development Programme (UNDP).

Mohammad Muslim Chowdhury, comptroller and auditor general of Bangladesh, spoke as chief guest. "Whole of society approach is necessary for financing and ensuring transparency and accountability in using the funds," he said.

Sudipto Mukerjee, resident representative of UNDP Bangladesh, addressing as special guest, said, "CFF has a very clear focus on marginalised people. Updating CFF will ensure the inclusion of private sector, NGOs as well as government bodies for building resilience." He also assured the support of UNDP to any government initiative on climate change in future.

Ramendra Nath Biswas, additional secretary to finance division and project director of IBFCR, in his welcome remarks said, "Bangladesh is on a development highway, but the growth is being stunted due to the adverse effects of climate change. In this context, the Finance Division is trying to manage fiscal inputs and other issues related to this project to enhance climate finance governance."

Preemptive vaccination prevented cholera epidemic in Rohingya camps: icddr,b

UNB, Cox's Bazar

A vaccination campaign run at Rohingya camps in Cox's Bazar between 2017 and 2018 prevented an outbreak of cholera in the area, said speakers at a seminar yesterday.

International Centre for Diarrhoeal Disease Research, Bangladesh (icddr,b) organised the programme in Cox's Bazar, to share its emergency healthcare response and preemptive oral cholera vaccination measures among forcibly-displaced Myanmar nationals.

Between October 2017 and December 2018, 2.2 million doses of oral cholera vaccine were given to Rohingyas and host community.

Earlier, icddr,b and Unicef jointly conducted a field assessment in Cox's Bazar in September 2017, and identified potential risks of a diarrhoeal disease outbreak and related mitigation initiatives required.

Dr ASG Faruque, senior scientist, NCSD at icddr,b, said the study found that sanitation facilities in the camps created an environment suitable for cholera outbreaks.

Dr Ashrafur Islam Khan said the preemptive vaccination campaign has prevented a cholera epidemic, which was anticipated by the global public health community.
