PURBACHAL PROJECT

CONCEPT lost on REVISIONS

Open space made to shrink; layout plan changed for fifth time to accommodate 'influential people'; Rajuk moves to appeal against HC directive for no further change

TAWFIQUE ALI

Rajuk is set to turn land originally earmarked for education and environment preservation into commercial and business plots in its 6,227-acre Purbachal New Town project in the city's outskirts.

Since it launched the scheme in 1995, between Kaliganj and Rupganj with the Shitalakkhya to the east and the Balu to the west, Rajdhani Unnayan Karttripakkha (Rajuk) has so far altered the layout plan five times.

According to documents produced before the High Court to get the fifth layout revision endorsed, Rajuk intends to reduce 269 acres dedicated to 157 educational institutions to 119 acres.

The 150 acres gained from the reduction will be used to create more plots -- residential, commercial, and for more institutional plots that include schools, colleges, universities, hospitals, clinics and clubs.

Rajuk insiders said that the existing institutional plots have been split to increase the number of plots and to allot them to more applicants.

"In this process, some indispensable standard characters and features of an institutional plot have been compromised, capacity was reduced and

Set up a road safety authority

Govt Committee helmed by Shajahan Khan recommends in its draft report

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

A committee headed by former shipping minister Shajahan Khan has prepared a draft report on preventing road accidents and bringing discipline in the road transport sector.

The report contains a 111-point recommendation, including for formation of a road safety authority under the prime minister's supervision.

The authority would draw up plans in coordination with the agencies concerned, monitor the agencies' work as well as identify the accident-prone zones and come up with solutions.

The existing laws, guidelines and reports of other committees already cover many of the 111-point recommendations.

The committee also decided on three deadlines and pointed out the authorities for implementation of the recommendations.

Student pushed off bus, killed

Fellow students from Sylhet Agricultural University stage demo; driver arrested

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Moulvibazar

A student of Sylhet Agricultural University died after he was pushed off a bus by the helper and crushed under the rear wheels in Nabiganj upazila of Habiganj yesterday evening.

The victim, Wasim Adnan, 21, son of Abu Zaher Mahbub and Dr Mina Parvin, was a fourth-year student of biotechnology and genetic engineering department at the university.

Wasim along with some of his friends were locked in an altercation with the driver and helper over fare after they boarded a Udar Paribahan bus from Toll Plaza area of Nabiganj to return to Sylhet around 6:30pm.

Wasim Adnan

was present during the incident.

The bus was later seized by police in Begumganj area of the district's Osmaninagar upazila but the driver and the helper managed to flee, the police official said.

Enter Raushan, exit GM Quader

Ershad keeps JP's musical chair game on

RASHIDUL HASAN

Internal division over leadership widens in Jatiya Party as its Chairman HM Ershad has nominated his wife Raushan Ershad for deputy leader of the opposition, removing his younger brother GM Quader from the post.

Ershad, known as an unpredictable character in the country's political arena for his flip-flops on key issues, made the decision public in a statement yesterday, less than 18 hours after he relieved Quader from the JP co-chairman's post.

In a statement issued around 11:00pm on Friday, the former military ruler said he relieved Quader from the party post for failing to discharge his duties and creating divisions in the party.

He, however, stated that the JP Parliamentary Party would decide whether Quader would continue as deputy

IS 'caliphate' falls

US-allied Syria force takes last jihadist bastion; experts warn threats from the group remain

AFP, Baghouz

Kurdish-led forces pronounced the death of the Islamic State group's nearly five-year-old "caliphate" yesterday after flushing out diehard jihadists from their very last bastion in eastern Syria.

Fighters of the US-backed Syrian Democratic Forces raised their yellow flag in Baghouz, the remote riverside village where diehard jihadists of a variety of nationalities made a desperate, dramatic last stand.

The SDF's victory capped a deadly six-month operation against the final remnants of the caliphate which once stretched across a vast swathe of Iraq and Syria, and held seven million people in its sway.

World leaders hailed the victory as a major landmark in the fight against IS and its ideology, but warned the group that spurred a spate of global terror attacks was far from defeated.

"Syrian Democratic Forces declare total elimination of so-called caliphate and 100 percent territorial defeat of ISIS," spokesman Mustafa Bali said in a statement, using another acronym for IS.

In Al-Omar, an oil field used as the main SDF staging base for the final phase of the assault, fighters in their best fatigues laid down their weapons and broke into song and dance.

They joined top Kurdish and Arab tribal officials, as well as a leading US envoy, for a ceremony unveiling a monument to their fallen comrades and celebrating the landmark victory.

The state proclaimed in mid-2014 by fugitive IS supremo Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi started collapsing in 2017 when parallel offensives in Iraq and Syria wrested back its main hubs Mosul and Raqqa.
