

GRAPEVINE

Priyanka's wrath

It looks like OK! Magazine will not be able to escape Priyanka Chopra's wrath. The recently married superstar and her husband, American singer, songwriter and actor, Nick Jonas are all prepared to sue the magazine for running an article claiming that the couple was headed towards a divorce, after just three months of their marriage. The article in question cited an unnamed source, saying, "They've been fighting about everything - work, partying, spending time together. The bottom line is that Nick and Priyanka rushed into things...And now they're paying the price. Their marriage is hanging by a thread." A close aide of Priyanka said that the actor is all set to sue the magazine for spreading false information. This is not the first time Priyanka is facing negative media publicity: THE CUT magazine had previously published a racist report on Priyanka, calling her a "global scam artist". The article was later taken down, following backlash from various quarters.

Source: Internet

Idris Elba endorsed by Judi Dench for Bond

Veteran English actor, Judi Dench, who played MI6 chief, 'M' in seven Bond movies, has recently remarked that Idris Elba would make a brilliant James Bond. The actor said, "I think he would be a brilliant Bond. When we filmed 'Cats', he kept saying to me 'Will you send me to the Heaviside layer?' (a reference to a song from the musical), and at one point I turned to him and said 'No: I'll send you to MI6!" If Dench's words come true, Elba will be the first black actor to play the character of the charismatic and heart-melting British Secret Service agent.

Source: Internet

SRK's dress-up dilemma

So, it looks like the King of Bollywood doesn't hesitate to take his time when it comes to dressing-up for parties! This payload was dropped by none other than the superstar's better half, producer Gauri Khan, after receiving an award for being the Most Stylish Couple, at an event. While talking about who takes more time to get dressed, Mrs. Khan revealed, "For someone who's claiming that he has got nothing to do with style, I just have to tell you a little secret - whenever we are going out or stepping out for a party, I am usually out in 20 minutes, ready and perfectly on time, and he takes may be two or three hours." SRK was quick to reply, "And I think you are looking very stunning!" Khan and Gauri got hitched in 1991, and share three children.

Source: Internet

