In addition, local traditional crafts were on display at the venue. Mahfuz Anam, Editor, The Daily Star, delivered the welcoming address. Banglar Dugdugi charmed the audience with their renditions of O Ronger Ghora Douraiya Jau, Shonar Bandhali Nao, Amar Har Kala Korlam Re, Dekhhechi Rup Shagore Moner Manush and Bhenge Mor Ghorer Chabi Niye Jabi Ke Amare. Among others, they also performed a medley of the songs, Amar Ekla Nitai and Ekla Cholo Re, along with a few songs of Radha Romon, Hason Raja and satire and comedy, beautifully. The group used traditional acoustic instruments such as ektara, dotara, flute, Bangla dhol, harmonium, tabla, mondira and several others in their performances.

A three-day folk music festival, titled, Jatiya Bhatiali Sangeet Utshab, was held in Mymensingh in October 2018. The first of its kind festival was supported by the Ministry of Cultural Affairs and Charan Akhra. Banglar Dugdugi, along with Bhatiali singers from different parts of Bangladesh, performed at the festival. Siddique mentioned that at the time, the former Minister of Cultural Affairs, Asaduzzaman Noor, MP, gave him the encouragement that he needed to form the group.

Since then, Banglar Dugdugi has performed in different national and international festivals, television programmes as well as stage shows.

"The objective of Banglar Dugdugi is to uphold and maintain the culture of Bangladesh with traditional music," said Siddique. "Many emerging artists of today are producing fusion versions of folk songs and singers who are not necessarily trained in folk music, are singing those. Many musical forms of folk, such as Bhatiali, Bhawaiya and Gombhira are hardly present in the music scene today. We intend to showcase Bangla folk music in its purest form."
