

Back from HIBERNATION

Academy Award winning actor Jennifer Lawrence is back in front of the camera, after her year-long hiatus. According to reports, the actor has recently signed a yet untitled film, set to be directed by renowned theatre director Lila Neugebauer, who will be making her feature film debut with this venture. The film is based on a screenplay inked by first-time screenwriter

Elizabeth Sanders. Although, details about the movie are being kept under the wraps, it has been revealed that the film will be produced by Scott Rudin and Eli Bush along with Lawrence and Justine Polsky. Shooting for the film is set to start mid-year in New Orleans.

Source: Internet

GRAPEVINE

Ben Affleck to star in WWII movie

Award winning Hollywood actor Ben Affleck has been roped in to star in and direct a true World War II story titled Ghost Army. The Universal Pictures venture is based on a documentary Ghost Army, and the book The Ghost Army of World War II, written by Rick Beyer and Elizabeth Sayles. The script has been written by True Detective's creator Nic Pizzolatto. Affleck's previous directorial projects include, Live by Night, a gangster drama set in the Prohibition era, which was released in 2016, and the 2012 flick Argo, which won the Oscar in the Best Picture category.

Source: Internet

PARINEETI'S Veggie-tales

Bollywood actor Parineeti Chopra has turned vegetarian. Confirming the news to an Indian newspaper, the actor said that her decision was influenced by multiple factors. For one, eating meat was making her feel uncomfortable. She further added, "Though I used to never really binge on meat, I have now become a complete vegetarian and the reasons are personal, spiritual as well as for health." The actor, as well known for her fitness-related pursuits as her acting skills, further added, "Becoming a vegetarian is part of a paradigm change within myself that I have been seeking for a while now. I'm a big believer of energies and eating meat was just not sitting well internally with me and I decided to give it up. Also, I have been pushing myself every single day to be fitter and have a disciplined lifestyle." On work front, Parineeti will be next seen in the Hindi remake of the 2015 Hollywood thriller, The Girl on the Train.

Source: Internet

