

Swift's Feline Pursuits

American singer and songwriter Taylor Swift, who mesmerized her fans all over the world with her melodious Love Story, has recently revealed to an American weekly that she had to visit cat school to learn how to act like a feline for her new flick Cats, directed by Tom Hooper. Swift further added, "I have cats, I'm obsessed with them. They're just a real joy to live with. And I love my cats so much that when a role came up in a movie called Cats, I just thought like I've gotta do this. Like this is my calling in life, to do this for the ladies. And so I went to cat school which they have on set, readily available for us and learned how to be as much like a cat as I possibly could and yeah cats are just really cool." Cats is expected to be released on December 20, 2019, by Universal Pictures.

Source: Internet

Pataudi Nawab's New Roles

After beefing up to play the character of Mughal Army Chief Jai Singh I's fort keeper, Udaybhan Rathod, in the upcoming period drama Taanaji: The Unsung Warrior, where he will be seen sword locked with Ajay Devgn, playing Maratha ruler Shivaji's commander Tanaji Malusare, the 10th Nawab of Pataudi, Saif Ali Khan, will be required to wear a skinnier look for his next venture, Jawaani Jaaneman. According to reports, Khan is on a special diet to shed those extra stones before shooting for the film commences this June in London. Due to the tight schedule, Khan will also be seen at the gym more frequently to resemble the look of a middle-aged man. Here's wishing Saif Ali Khan all the very best for his weight loss endeavor.

Source: Internet

Jeff Goldblum's unpleasant Hawaii trip

Veteran Hollywood actor, Jeff Goldblum and his wife Emilie Goldblum, were put in a precarious situation during their recent Hawaii trip, when their personal belongings were stolen from the locker of Outrigger resort in Waikiki, while they were taking a dip in the ocean. According to Hawaii police sources, the Jurassic Park actor filed a report with the police over the weekend. According to reports, the actor and his better-half had stuffed some of their belongings, including a clutch, a phone, cash and credit cards, into the locker before diving into the Pacific, only to find them missing after returning from the swim. Apparently, Goldblum was still dripping wet from the water adventure when speaking with the police on the beach. An investigation is underway in this connection. Jeff's phone and Emile's ID card have so far been recovered by hotel security.

Source: Internet

