

PHOTO: SHEIKH MEHEDI MORSHED

MAHADI FAISAL

A sporadic yet splendid musician

MINAM HAQ

Mahadi Faisal had a knack for music from a very young age. He is a proud participant of Notun Kuri, a reality competition series for children that aired on Bangladesh Television (BTV), way before such shows were all the rage. As he grew older, life took a different turn for him and he steadily drifted further apart from his musical endeavours.

However, the flair reignited once again in 2005, as he prepared to participate in yet another musical reality show, Close Up-1. As the show progressed, Mahadi began to prove his prowess and garnered much admiration from the viewers. In no time, the talented artiste had a devoted fan base. "I made it to the top 10 amongst thousands of participants in the competition," expressed Mahadi. "Not only did the show help me reconnect with my zeal, but it also taught me a lot."

From then onwards, Mahadi maintained his ties with his passion for music. He launched his first album, titled Bondana in 2007, under the banner of Gaanchill Music. The lyrics of the album were penned by Asif Iqbal while Prince Mahmud tuned the tracks. Following his devotion for music, he went on to release more albums, including the likes of Antohin, a duet with Elita Karim, Onnorokom and others. Given the fact that Antohin captured the hearts of numerous listeners with its melodious numbers, the duo released another album titled Antohin 2. Apart from his albums, Mahadi also lent his voice for several mixed projects, live shows and singles. His latest single was with renowned musician Minar, titled Keu Bojhe Toh Keu Bojhe Na.

As of now, the artiste is engrossed in the pursuit of his professional career. Serving as the Head of Business in a distinguished private organisation, Mahadi is dedicated to his corporate career to bring about positive changes to his related field, the agro sector. Despite the busy lifestyle, the artiste continues to nurture his essence for music. "Given the workload I'm dealing with, this Eid, I will not be able to deliver any musical piece for my fans unfortunately," informed Mahadi. "However, music lovers can look forward to my upcoming single during Eid-ul-Adha."

FESTIVAL DE CANNES 2019

draws its curtains

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT DESK

The most anticipated film festival, Festival de Cannes 2019, recently concluded, shedding light on some of the notable films of the year. The jury of this year's award ceremony, headed by Mexican film director, producer, screenwriter, and Oscar winner, Alejandro González Iñárritu, included Elle Fanning, Kelly Reichardt, Enki Bilal, Maimouna N'Diaye, Alice Rohrwacher, Yorgos Lanthimos, Robin Campillo, and Pawel Pawlikowski. This year, the highest prize awarded at the festival, the Palme d'Or, went to Korean filmmaker Bong Joon Ho's Parasite and the Grand Prix award went to Mati Diop's Atlantic. Kleber Mendonça Filho and Julian Dornelles's Bacurau won the Cannes Jury Prize, tied with Ladj Ly's Les Misérables. Besides, Emily Beecham won the Best Actress Award for her role in Little Joe, whereas Antonio Banderas won the Best Actor Award for his role in Pain and Glory. Jean-Pierre and Luc Dardenne bagged the Best Director Award for the film The Young Ahmed. Celine Sciamma's Portrait of a Lady on Fire garnered the prize for Best Screenplay. Following are some of the other awards -

SPECIAL MENTION OF THE JURY It Must Be Heaven by Elia Suleiman SHORT FILM PALME D'OR The Distance Between Us And The Sky by Vasilis Kekatos SPECIAL MENTION OF THE JURY Monstruo Dios	QUEER PALM (FEATURE) Portrait of a Lady on Fire by Celine Sciamma QUEER PALM (SHORT) The Distance Between Us And The Sky by Vasilis Kekatos CAMERA D'OR Our Mothers by Cesar Diaz
--	---

Antonio Banderas

Emily Beecham

Bong Joon Ho

PHOTOS: COLLECTED FROM CANNES' OFFICIAL WEBSITE

Three-day Nazrul celebrations conclude in Mymensingh

AMINUL ISLAM, from Mymensingh

The three-day celebrations, including performances by artistes from Dhaka and Mymensingh on the occasion of the 120th birth anniversary of national poet Kazi Nazrul Islam, concluded at Darirampur in Trishal of Mymensingh yesterday.

Darirampur is where Nazrul spent a year of his childhood, at Darirampur High School (now Nazrul Academy). The celebration at Darirampur Nazrul Mancha, was organised by the Ministry of Cultural Affairs and Mymensingh District administration.

Around 30 cultural organisations from Trishal and Mymensingh took part in the cultural shows. The performance of the groups encapsulated the enormous audience present at the venue.

The groups included Zila Shilpakala Academy, Udichi Shilpi Gosthi, Nazrul Academy, Sandiponi Sangskritik Sangstha and Shuktara Sangha. They performed musical soirees, while Nazrul Sena, Shabdha Abritti

Charcha Kendra and Bangabandhu Parishad took part in poetry recitation sessions.

Eminent Nazrul artistes, Dr Nashid Kamal and Salauddin Ahmed from Dhaka, also performed on the second day of the event. Poet Amzad Dolan presented the cultural show.

Earlier, Minister of Education, Dr Dipu Moni, inaugurated the celebrations as the chief guest. KM Khalid Babu, Minister for Cultural Affairs and Dr Subhas Chandra Biswas, the deputy commissioner of Mymensingh were present, among others.

The vice-chancellor of Rabindra Bharati University, Dr Biswajit Ghosh, delivered the speech on the inaugural ceremony.

The three-day programmes also included colourful rallies and discussion meetings.

MOVIE REVIEW

Aladdin: A nostalgic wish come true

SHABARA IQBAL

Directed by Guy Ritchie, the same man who gave us Sherlock Holmes (2009), Sherlock Holmes : A Game of Shadows (2011) and Snatch (2000), the live-action adaptation of Disney's 1992 animated classic, Aladdin, is a nostalgic wish come true for anyone who grew up watching Disney films. It follows Aladdin, an Arabian street urchin, who finds a magic lamp containing a genie. In order to hide the lamp from the Grand vizier, he disguises himself as a wealthy prince, and tries to impress the Sultan and his daughter. The premise of the remake stays quite faithful to the 1992 film, with Alan Menken returning as the music director.

People have been a bit worried about anyone messing with a beloved classic like Aladdin. After all, the original 1992 animated version—featuring Robin Williams' rapid-fire genius, a fun Arabian Nights love story and an Academy Award-winning musical score—is right there at the top of nearly every family's "favourites" list. Fortunately, in his interpretation of what the world of Aladdin will look like if it was made out of brick and mortar, Guy Ritchie magnificently brings the city of Agrabah to life, making some changes to the story in lively and colourful ways. He presents simplistic, bedtime storytelling, stylised to cinematic perfection. However, in the first few minutes, barring the opening credits song, viewers really struggle to connect with the story as an immersive experience. But once the screenplay picks up pace, the film is a joyful ride. The character of the Genie is one that everyone is easily emotionally invested in. Despite having been stuck in the lamp for more than a thousand years, the minute the Genie gets out, he is making pop cultural references, giving makeovers and being witty, as if he spends most of his days on Twitter and Netflix. Will Smith as the Genie sweeps the floor with anyone sharing screen space with him. With his brilliant comic timing, dancing and singing, Smith reinforces his position as one of the greatest entertainers there is.

Naomi Scott as Princess Jasmine wins over Mena Massoud as Aladdin. She stands out in every scene. Her solo song, Speechless, an original track made for the adaptation, is one of the most powerful moments of the film.

Mena Massoud is not instantly likeable, which is one of the key characteristics of Aladdin, but as the film progresses, so does his character and he manages to grow on everyone. Unfortunately, Massoud is a better singer and dancer than he is an actor, and because most of his scenes are with Smith, he comes across as more of a novice. Nasim Pedrad plays the newly created character Dalia, a quirky and loveable handmaid to Princess Jasmine. She brings in a strong dose of comedy, but remains largely under utilised in the story.

All in all, Aladdin is a film that celebrates love, hope, freedom, breaking down the class divide and living in harmony. It is the fairytale that perhaps all of us need every once in a while.

Shilpacharya Zainul Abedin's death anniversary today

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT DESK

The country will observe the 43rd death anniversary of Shilpacharya Zainul Abedin today. The artist, born in Mymensingh, was influenced greatly by the picturesque views by the Brahmaputra River. He was a post-auratic painter, and was known as the founding father of Bangladeshi modern art. Abedin's paintings on the Bengal Famine of 1943 brought him international fame. The Government Institute of Arts and Crafts (now Faculty of Fine Arts) was established in 1948 under his wing, and he was appointed as the first principal of the institution. He founded Bangladesh's Folk Art Museum at Sonargaon in 1975.

PHOTO: COLLECTED