'Earn confidence of people'

President tells public administration officials

UNB, Dhaka

President Abdul Hamid yesterday urged government officials to earn the confidence of people regarding availing government services without any lobbying.

"There's a lack of confidence among people when it comes to availing various services from government organisations. You (public servants) need to raise public awareness in this regard," he said. The president said this while addressing the Public Administration Awards 2019 at Bangabandhu International Conference Centre in the city.

President Hamid said there is a need for developing a relationship of trust between government officials and people of the country. "Almost all government offices have citizen charters...It's necessary to monitor whether people can avail the government services," he added.

The president also said government officials have a greater role in formulating plans and implementing those with due emphasis on public interest. Hamid said many roads and culverts are built in rural areas without proper planning, obstructing the natural flow of water. "In some cases, the quality of construction is so poor that those require reconstruction even before completion of the works."

He further said, "The government has been implementing various development projects in the country but still we need to do more to ensure the desired progress." Underscoring the need for a transparent, skilled and accountable administration, President Hamid asked the authorities concerned to ensure transparency and accountability at every level to achieve the desired goals of sustainable development.

"The British had introduced public administration in the subcontinent to rule and loot it. Public welfare was not their concern," he said, adding, "Today, we're citizens of an independent country and the main aim of the administration is to serve people. So, there's no alternative to changing the traditional attitude of public servants."

President Hamid said transparency and accountability will have to be ensured at all levels. "Only then the development activities of the government will be sustainable. Remember, administration is for the people and not the other way around." The current government has taken admirable steps in reforming civil service, he said.

Referring to various social problems, the president urged all to stay alert so that opportunists cannot create instability in the country. The National Public Service Day-2019 is being observed with an objective

RESCHEDULING DEFAULT LOANS

HC questions legality of central bank circular

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The High Court yesterday questioned the legality of a Bangladesh Bank circular that allowed loan defaulters to reschedule their repayment of loans upon a down payment of just two percent of the loan amount, and to get fresh loans.

The court issued a rule asking authorities of the central bank and the government to explain in 10 days why the May 16 circular should not be declared illegal.

The HC bench of Justice JBM Hassan and Justice Md Khairul Alam came up with the rule following a writ petition filed by Human Rights and Peace for Bangladesh (HRPB). It also set July 31 to resume hearing.

Another HC bench on May 21 had issued a status quo on the circular till June 24. The court on June 24 extended the status quo for the next two months.

Following a petition by the finance ministry, the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court on July 8 stayed the HC order for two months and set a condition that loan defaulters would not be allowed to get further loans by depositing two percent down payment.

The apex court also asked the HC bench, led by Justice JBM Hassan, to hear and dispose of the petition in two months.

Talking to The Daily Star yesterday, petitioner's lawyer advocate Manzill Murshid said the July 8 order of the Appellate Division would remain in place.

Attorney General Mahbubey Alam appeared for the state.

On February 13, HRPB moved the writ petition, based on which the HC issued a rule asking authorities to explain why their failure or inaction to stop irregularities and corruption in sanctioning loans and offering waiver of interest in the last 20 years should not be declared illegal.

Secretaries to the Cabinet Division, Prime Minister's Office, finance ministry, financial institutions division, law ministry, Bangladesh Bank governor, and the chairmen of the National Board of Revenue and the Anti-Corruption Commission were made respondents to the rule.
