EAC arranges event with the slogan "Be World Ready"

With the slogan "Be World Ready", Education Assessment Consultancy (EAC) arranged an event at their office in House 61, Gausul Azam Avenue, Sector 14, Uttara, Dhaka.

The event was headed by Saifur Rahman, CEO of EAC. Mala Raghavan, representative from INTI International University and Rumana Sultana, Managing Director of EAC were also present at the event.

EAC is doing events and workshops like "The Power Plan for Career Success", "The World Awaits You", "Discover the Superhero in You" and many more in collaboration with INTI International University, Malaysia. Saifur Rahman said, "EAC is an education-based consultation provider, working with numerous renowned universities and organisations abroad. While working on this sector for a good amount of time, we realised something important: our students were lacking the things universities and, even firms if I may, demand and expect the most. The crucial and necessary skills needed by students to compete at an international platform are lacking in our country's students."

Rumana Sultana mentioned, "Our mission is to develop and polish students, making them 'world ready'. Leaving the common academics to the schools, we will provide them with the knowledge in other not-offered courses, engage them with extracurricular activities, add another language or so to their arsenal, and provide them with workshops on required skills like confidence building, teamwork and speaking, improve their communication skills and personality. Also, by exploring their passions both inside and outside the common business and engineering fields, we connect them with a mentor (a professional already working on the fields they are passionate about), giving them the exposure to their professional insight in their respective fields."

UAP organises seminar titled "Bengali Literature in Translation"

The Department of English, University of Asia Pacific (UAP) organised a seminar on "Bengali Literature in Translation" on June 18, 2019. Renowned academics and translators, Prof. Dr. Niaz Zaman and Prof. Dr. Fakrul Alam were invited to speak on the occasion.

The seminar was anchored by Ismat Zarin, Assistant Professor, Department of English, UAP.

In the first part of the seminar, Prof. Zaman presented her paper titled "Style and Texture in Translation". In this regard, Dr. Zaman said that the translator needs to draw on all resources available to them and that they must have patience to read every word and line of the original to see what the writer meant.

During the second part of the seminar, Prof. Alam shared his own experience of being a translator. He also presented his paper titled "Translation from Bengali to English". "The best translation is when the translator is in possession" – with this statement, Prof. Alam said that the translators need to translate what they like and they have to get to the mind of the original.

At the end of the seminar, Dr. Muhammad Mizanur Rahaman, Professor, Department of Civil Engineering and Director, Institute for Energy, Environment, Research and Development (IEERD), UAP handed over crests to the invited speakers. The vote of thanks was given by Arjumand Ara, Assistant Professor and Head, Department of English, UAP.

Quiz Mania holds its Bangladesh selection round

The selection of the Quiz Mania 7 Worldwide for Bangladesh was organised by Accretive Media Private Limited, Nepal. The selection was held on July 20, 2019 at the Government's Science College in Dhaka.

More than 400 students participated in this selection. A team has been selected to participate in the main event which is to be held in Nepal.

On the occasion, renowned actor of Nepal, Rajesh Hamal handed over the certificates among the winners and participants. Hari Pokharel, Chief Executive of Accretive Media Private Limited and Bonamali Mohan Bhattacharya, Principal of Government Science College were also present at the event.

At first, the participating teams gave answers to 50 multiple choice questions. Four teams were chosen by the highest accuracy of the given answers and selected for the "Rapid Fire Round". The two participants who gave the highest correct answers have given the ticket to participate in the main event.

The main episode will be held in Nepal in August with 120 participants (60 teams) from 60 countries. The final episode will be broadcast live on Kantipur TV in Nepal and will be hosted by Rajesh Hamal.

The aim of this competition is to create an international platform for students from different countries of the world. It will encourage students to pursue knowledge and learn new experiences and get acquainted with the new culture. The event looks to spread the culture of Nepal through international media and spreading education throughout the world with joy.

The media partner of the event is The Daily Star and SHOUT.
