

HOOKUPS &amp; BREAKUPS

Oops, she did it again?

We are all quite familiar with Britney Spears' wild life, so when she was found sporting a diamond on her left hand, it wasn't very far-fetched to assume that she was getting hitched for the third time. Brit and her boyfriend, Sam Asghari walked the red carpet together at the premiere of Once Upon a Time in Hollywood, where the spectacle occurred. However, to the dismay of several fans, the rumours have been put to rest, as sources claimed the ring to be just a design statement. Spears and Asghari met on the set of her 2016 music video for Slumber Party, and have been happily dating for the past two years, but have no immediate plans to walk down the aisle. Nevertheless, we reckon that the future holds promise for the happy couple.

The bittersweet life of sprousehart

After two years of dating, Lili Reinhart and Cole Sprouse have reportedly split. Diehard fans are shocked and heartbroken, but it seems that the Riverdale co-stars' friends and families saw it coming. An insider shared, "Things have felt super heavy in the relationship for a while, and it got to be too much." The source added, "Their personalities are very different and their lifestyles often clashed." Reinhart and Sprouse were last seen together at the San Diego Comic Con 2019 with the rest of the gang, promoting their hit show, on which they play Betty and Jughead respectively. They appeared to be keeping things professional and amicable. Reinhart and Sprouse are both private people and have not divulged any information about their separation. Only one question remains: What does this mean for the future of Bughead?

WAITING FOR MR RIGHT

Luka Chuppi actor, Kriti Sanon has been the target of the buzzing rumour bee, and made the headlines quite a few times for being in an alleged love affair with her Raabta co-star, Sushant Singh. From time to time, both the actors denied their relationship to have been more than just friends, despite being snapped spending time together by the media. Recently in an interview, Kriti cleared the air by sharing her thoughts on love and relationship. She said, "Falling in love doesn't need time, staying in love does. Maintaining and building a relationship needs time." She also added, "Love is not just about that special someone, but also about your family and friends. If you are talking about a special someone, I would love to fall in love, but it needs to be organic and that hasn't happened yet." On work front, the actor is all set for her next release, Arjun Patiala, alongside Diljit Dosanjh.

