

A LOVE OR HATE STORY?

Hate Story 4 actor Urvashi Tautela has been making headlines, ever since rumours surfaced about her alleged romance with cricketer, Hardik Pandya. The rumours began circulating after the pair was spotted at a party in 2018, where the romance had apparently sparked. However, the actor seems to not like having all this attention, as she recently posted a status on social media, "I would humbly request respective media channels on @youtube to stop uploading such ridiculous videos as i have a family to answer and it creates problems for me". Attached to it was a screenshot of one such video. Following the disaster of an episode of Koffee with Karan earlier this year, where Hardik was slammed for his sexist and racist comments, it would be quite natural for individuals to deny ever being associated with him.

CAUGHT UP in a bad romance?

Just after five months into her split with ex-fiancé, Christian Carino, it looks like Lady Gaga is back in the dating scene. The lucky guy however, is not Bradley Cooper, who fans were rooting for after the duo's dreamy performance of Shallow at the Oscars, which sparked the dating rumours. The honour of Gaga's man, now goes to Dan Horton, her audio and monitor engineer. Gaga and Dan were allegedly photographed kissing multiple times, at what seems to be a brunch date in Studio City, California. Sources claimed that she "seemed confident and in a good place" and "looked amazing" in her matching black tank-shorts ensemble. They were also apparently at a table which could be easily seen, showing how she isn't planning to keep her romance under the wraps. Dan had previously been married to actor, Autumn Guzzardi, while Gaga first started dating Christian in February, 2017.

That's right; the couple are now engaged. Although they had been quiet about their romance through and through, the duo were first rumoured to be dating in February, 2017. The details of the engagement aren't open to the public yet, but fans are excited to see what's to come. However, it was reported that Robbie was the one to go down on his knees.
