Of Aztec prints and more

The latest trend on the global fashion scene is all about geometric prints inspired by indigenous motifs. When it comes to these edgy patterns it is best to pair them with a simple, or monochrome look or you may risk looking like the inside of a bioscope, and also be the reason for seizure attacks and mild headaches of passersby.

DRESSES

Dresses in ethnic inspired patterns are not only fun, but also flattering to the figure. The texture allows the wearer to either highlight, or minimise — based on your body type. For daytime, pair it with a denim/leather jacket, a simple golden chain, or a wrist watch, and bracelets. As an evening wear, pair it with chunky metallic accessories, or a black sequined jacket.

This year has been all about pastels, and their polar opposite bright hues. In the same sense, it is time to retire some of those chequered, or striped patterns and make room for some abstract and geometric shapes and lines, respectively.
