UNB, Dhaka

The 127th birth anniversary of Huseyn Shaheed Suhrawardy, one of the most powerful political leaders of the Indian sub-continent, was observed in a befitting manner yesterday.

Marking the day, different socio-political and cultural organisations arranged various programmes. Bangabandhu and Muktiyoddha Club of Begum Rokeya University, Rangpur held a discussion at BRUR liaison office in Dhaka on Saturday.

According to Banglapedia, Suhrawardy was deputy mayor of Calcutta city in 1924; labour and commerce minister in AK Fazlul Huq's Praja-League coalition government; and civil supplies minister in Khwaja Nazimuddin's cabinet during 1943-1945.

He was also chief minister of undivided Bengal during 1946-1947; law minister in Mohammad Ali's cabinet in Pakistan during 1954-1955; and finally, prime minister of Pakistan for 13 months during 1956-1957.

Born into an illustrious Bangalee Muslim family in Midnapore on September 8, 1892, Suhrawardy was educated in Kolkata and was trained as a barrister in Oxford where he practiced law at the Gray's Inn in Great Britain.

He died on December 5, 1963 at the age of 71 in Lebanon.

parole. We can't say whether she'll apply for parole in the future."

Under the circumstances, the BNP secretary general said their party and its associate bodies will continue to take up programmes demanding Khaleda's release.

"We'll form a human chain in Dhaka on September 11 while our different units will hold similar programme across the country on September 12," he said.

Besides, Fakhru said, their party will stage public rallies in Sylhet on September 21, in Mymensingh on September 26 and in Rajshahi on September 29 to push the same demand.

BNP standing committee member Moudud Ahmed said the lawyers have long been trying to ensure bail for Khaleda, but they are facing obstructions at every step due to political influence. He said the government is showing an "inhumane" attitude towards Khaleda though she has been suffering from various ailments.

Moudud said he thinks Khaleda will recover from her illness if she is provided better treatment at any specialised private hospital.

BNP standing committee members Dr Abdul Moyeen Khan, Amir Khosru Mahmud Chowdhury, Iqbal Hasan Mahmud Tuku, vice chairman AZM Zahid Hossain and senior joint secretary general Ruhul Kabir Rizvi were, among others, present.
