

WHEATFIELD WITH CROWS

Many consider this as Van Gogh's final painting. So, what can be better than a makeover, paying homage to the guru of post-impressionist paintings?

This particular painting uses the colours of harvested wheat, typically an abundance of yellow and a mix of blue and green to denote the sky and the green fields.

The colours can be simply taken as an inspiration. The eye makeup can be elaborate, so that it takes all the inspiration of Van Gogh's final painting, but also has a unique twist of its own.
