

COVER STORY

Woman

Thou Art Divine

The three worlds trembled — a deity was created with celestial powers. With all her blessings, she transformed into this beautiful form, and marched against the demons, on her mount. Unsurpassed in beauty; she is eternal. She is the protector of the realm, and a clear manifestation of energy. She is all women, in their truest form. She is Durga, the life-like expression of divine energy. Depicted in her various names; she is all woman — in every form.

Paatala – The one with the colour red

*Your left eye reflects the light of the gleaming moon;
The right, mirrors the glare of the blazing sun.
There is another,
that no one sees,
except for those who are awestruck by your beauty.
The third,
they say —
Sets the world on fire.
I am an admirer of the beautiful third-eye.
That perhaps,
dons your forehead as the flaming red-dot.*
