Oh the Iron-y

Fan theories and rumours have been circulating the internet ever since the announcement of Black Widow's own movie. Now, fans have finally received some good news; sources claim that Robert Downey Jr. will be reprising his role as Tony Stark once more in the film. Initially, the beloved superhero was set to make his final appearance in Avengers: Endgame, where he took his last breath. However, given Natasha and Tony's long-standing friendship, it only makes sense for the latter to appear in the prequel. Black Widow, which will begin the fourth phase of the MCU, is expected to be released on May 1, 2020.
