

HOOKUPS & BREAKUPS

The Second Arrival

Actor Aayush Sharma and wife Arpita Khan Sharma, sister of Salman Khan, are expecting their second child together. This news was revealed by the couple themselves at the green carpet of IIFA 2019. The couple is parents to a three-year-old, Ahil Sharma, and is excited about the arrival of another child. Aayush said to SpotboyE, "The new arrival is very exciting. Yes, Arpita and me are expecting a second baby. It's been such an amazing journey. It starts all over again and we just can't wait for the baby to come".

PLAYING MATCHMAKER

George and Amal Clooney, one of Hollywood's most popular couples, is said to be uniting Jennifer Aniston and Brad Pitt, one of Hollywood's most popular ex-couples. George and Amal will complete their five years of marriage this month and would be renewing their vows at their Los Angeles home. It is said that the gathering of their wedding vows would also serve another purpose: to bring Brad and Jennifer together again, since Clooney is close to both the actors. Although a contradictory report from Gossip Cop claims these to be untrue and that George and Amal will not be renewing their vows, fans are still excited about what's to come.

OH BABY!

It all started from the Diamond Ball charity event, where everyone present speculated that popstar Rihanna might be bearing a child. But, when questioned by the media, she just answered with a raised eyebrow, "I'm a black woman. I come from a black woman, who came from a black woman and I'm going to give birth to a black woman." Fast forward to a couple of days, she posted a series of pictures on her social media, where she was wearing clothes from her Fenty fashion line and had placed a bag to cover her stomach. These pictures only added fuel to the speculation regarding her pregnancy. Many believe that the father might be entrepreneur Hassan Jameel, who she has been quietly dating for a while now.
