Starting with the obvious, congratulations on the big news. How long has this been in the works? Thank you very much! I am very excited right now. I would like to thank all my friends and fans, who have congratulated me as of yet. Even though the wedding has been in the works for three months, I have known Nehal for quite a while now. I am happy that things are falling into place.

You have acted in a lot of romantic dramas and telefilms. How different does it feel, now that you are tying the knot in real life? You see, in a television drama, you can tell what might happen next after watching a certain scene. Reality is completely different, and real-life romance is unpredictable. There is no guarantee that you will have a good day after a fallout. My fiancé is understanding, kind and my best friend, so I could not have been luckier to find him.

Which projects are you currently working on? I have finished shooting for Aporadhi, directed by Rafat Majumdar Rinku, and In a Relationship by Mehedi Hasan Hridoy. Both the telefilms are opposite Tawfif Mahbub, through whom I actually met Nehal. (laughs).

You have always been selective about your work. What do you look for in a project? For me, the project, and the character I play, has to be interesting and original. It is true that I was typecast for playing a ‘tomboyish’ character, but I have grown out of that image. It is also important that any work I do does not clash with my studies as well, and thus far I have been able to maintain a CGPA of 3.97 in my university!

Do you have any message for your fans? I would like to thank my fans for their support, and I assure you, I will still be working with the same vigour and enthusiasm. Do keep us in your prayers.

Rajmoni Cinema Hall closes down

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT DESK

Cinema hall authorities often complain about facing continuous losses in the business. Earlier, renowned cinema halls – Purnima and Shyamoli – located in the capital, had been shut down due to the slump of business. Hundreds of theatres have been demolished all over the country in the past few years, in order to accommodate commercial spaces.

Rajmoni Hall, located in Kakrail, was established in the 80’s. It started business with the film Lalu Bhulu, and last displayed Shakib Khan’s Nolok.

Freedom fighter Ahsanullah Moni is the owner of Rajmoni Cinema Hall. The Daily Star talked to Shahidullah, the in-charge of the theatre. “We cannot bear the expenses anymore, and as the situation has no sign of improvement. We had to come to the decision of closing it down,” he says. He also informed that the owner would build a commercial space on the plot.

“The film industry is going through a crisis. We are not making profit from the business. Sadly, it has been same for many years, and it has become difficult for hall owners to survive in this field,” says Iftekhar Uddin Naushad, President of Bangladesh Motion Picture Exhibitor Association, and owner of Modhumita cinema hall.

The artistes in the film industry are worried. “The halls are closing down at a fast rate, and this is very alarming for our film industry. It is a threat for us as well,” says veteran actor Prabir Mitra. “We also have to see it from the owners’ perspective,” says another senior actor, Rozina. “It does not make sense to incur losses at such an alarming rate.”

Another cinema hall owned by Ahsanullah Moni, named Razia, is also rumoured to be closing down soon.

Burkhard Ducoffre, Deputy Head of Mission of the Embassy of the Federal Republic of Germany, addresses the audience.

(CSD), University of Liberal Arts Bangladesh, were among the honorable guests.

Welcoming the distinguished guests and attending students from different schools, Dr Kirsten Hackenbroch, Director, Goethe-Institut Bangladesh, gave a speech.

“Leaving the stage of a least-developed-country is a huge achievement for Bangladesh and scientific research will be a key factor in this endeavor,” said Burkhard Ducoffre. “The Science Film Festival presents scientific issues accessibly and entertainingly to a broad audience and demonstrates that science can be approached in various ways.”

Dr Samiya Selim, Director, Center for Sustainable Development (CSD), University of Liberal Arts Bangladesh, mentioned that the importance of science communication is now more urgent than ever. “The initiative importantly aims to reach the younger audience, and address the science behind climate change, plastic pollution, sustainability and other such critical issues,” she said.

The Science Film Festival is a celebration of science communication in Southeast Asia, South Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America. It promotes science literacy and facilitates awareness of contemporary scientific, technological and environmental issues through film and television content with accompanying educational activities. Film screenings, tailor-made for each age group, bring science themes closer to the life experience of young learners.
