ZAHANGIR ALOM

Internationally acclaimed Bangladeshi artist and printmaker Kalidas Karmakar passed away yesterday, due to a cardiac arrest, at the age of 73. The Ekushey Padak winner received many other awards and accolades for his contribution to the arts. Kalidas' artworks echo symbolic, abstract and semi-abstract imageries and represent the connotations of our glorious Liberation War, various social phenomena and their perceptions, unwanted political unrest and the life sketches of the people of our part of the world. He would often choose the word 'Alluvial' to title many of his solo exhibitions. From Manila to Dhaka, Unity in Diversity: An Art Exposition, was the last exhibition that he participated in.

In observance of United Nations Month of Museums and Galleries, From Manila to Dhaka, Unity in Diversity: An Art Exposition is underway at the National Commission for Culture and the Arts (NCCA) Gallery in Manila. The event is supported by NCCA and co-presented by the Philippine Amusement and Gaming Corporation, and the Embassy of Bangladesh in Manila.

Dedicated to contemporary arts, the exhibition is a joint initiative by the National Committee on Art Galleries and National Committee on Visual Arts, Manila. 14 artists from different countries are participating at the exhibition with a selection of 20 artworks.

Tres Roman, who spearheaded the project, invited foreign artists whom

'Made in Bangladesh' nominated for APSA

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT DESK

Made in Bangladesh, directed by Rubaiyat Hossain, has been nominated for the Asia Pacific Screen Awards (APSA), under the Cultural Diversity category. This award is backed by UNESCO.

The award-giving ceremony of the 13th edition of APSA will be held on November 21.

Established in 2007, the APSA is supported by Brisbane City Council. It is the region's highest accolade in films. Made in Bangladesh is Rubaiyat's third film after Meherjaan (2011) and Under Construction (2015).

The cast of the film features Rikita Nandini Shimu, Deepanwita Martin, Mayabe Rahman, Novera Rahman and Parvin Paru in the lead roles, along with Mustafa Monwar, Shatabdi Wadud, Joyraaj, and Momena Chowdhury.

The story of the film revolves around a character named Shimu, who portrays a worker in the ready-made garment (RMG) sector. The character was based on a real woman, who helped the team out with dialogues and other important details.

Earlier this year, the film premiered at Toronto International Film Festival (TIFF). It also had its European premiere at BFI London Film Festival. In the recently concluded Le Festival de Saint-Jean-de-Luz in France, Shimu won the Best Actress Award.

Khona Talkies (Bangladesh) and Les Films de l'Après-Midi (France) produced the film while Beofilm (Denmark), Midas Films (Portugal) and Cinema Cocoon (Bangladesh) are the co-producers.
