

GRAPEVINE

Hey tweet MAMA

Rapper Nicki Minaj dropped another pregnancy bomb on her fans with her recent tweet, "Expecting". Nicki soon deleted her original tweet and retweeted, "My bad y'all. Expecting an official date/ time for #QueenRadio in the morning. Blogs rilly reposting a typo that was up for 14 seconds chile. go to bed. Even if it's day time in your timezone. All of y'all just go to bed." This is not the first time the rapper has pulled a publicity stunt like this; she previously sparked news about her supposed pregnancy after spitting suggestive lyrics in one of her songs, and also the time when she shouted "I'm pregnant" on Queen Radio. Nicki's tweet came in the wake of her recent marriage to Kenneth Petty on October 21, 2019. She revealed that she will retire from music only to focus on her family.

I PICK YOU!

Posting picture-perfect shots on Instagram and captioning them with heartfelt wishes may be too mainstream for actor Blake Lively. Instead, she went on to upload a funny shot on Instagram to wish her husband, Deadpool actor, Ryan Reynolds, on his 43rd birthday. The photo featured a selfie that shows her sticking her finger up his nose. She captioned the image "I picked a good one. Happy birthday @vancityreynolds." Apart from being the dreamiest celeb couple, Blake Lively and Ryan Reynolds are the undisputed Hollywood King and Queen of trolling. They always find a way to make each other laugh. The couple tied the knot in September 2012 and share two children. They recently revealed that baby number three is on its way.

Travelling EFFORTLESSLY

Being an actor is not easy as the paparazzi is always on the lookout for candid shots of celebrities. May it be at airports, the gym, or even while enjoying a meal at a restaurant, actors are expected to look their best and any fashion mishap results in trolling. Recently, in an interview, actor Aditi Rao Hydari revealed that she does not pay heed to her airport looks. Her sole attention rather goes towards enhancing her acting prowess. She said, "Whatever effort I can I would want to put on acting. My energy is driven towards that and not my airport looks. My work gives me immense pleasure, and when I get work on good stories, with great filmmakers and actor that bring the glow that you see on my face." On the work front, the actor will be seen in projects such as Psycho, V and The Girl on The Train.