Potato farmers worried as certified seeds scanty

Seeds supplied by BADC meets only 3% of demand in 5 N dists

EAM ASADUZZAMAN, Nilphamari

Potato farmers in five northern districts under Rangpur agriculture region are worried at the start of the cultivation season as the most reliable seeds supplied by Bangladesh Agriculture Development Corporation (BADC) meets only 3% of the total demand.

"This year, Rangpur regional office of the Department of Agriculture Extension (DAE) set a target of potato cultivation on 91.4 thousand hectares of land to produce 28.6 lakh tonnes of the winter vegetable in Rangpur, Gaibandha, Kurigram, Lalmonirhat and Nilphamari districts," said Rafiqul Islam, sub assistant agriculture officer at Rangpur DAE office.

Sowing on 14 thousand hectares is already complete as many lands became free after harvest of early variety Aman paddy, he said.

Dr Md Sultanul Alam, deputy director (DD) of seed marketing department of BADC in Rangpur region, said they supplied around 4,000 tonnes of quality potato seeds in the region.

"We sell 25% seeds directly to farmers and rest through 732 dealers." Price of BADC's 'A' grade asterix variety potato seeds is Tk 28 a kg and that of 'B' grade is Tk 25.50," he said.

Quality seeds supplied by BADC comprises around 3% of the region's total need of potato seeds, which is 1.37 lakh tonnes, said Md Moniruzzaman, DD of DAE in Rangpur regional office.

He, however, claimed that there is nothing to worry as farmers sow popular local variety seeds preserved in cold storages in vast areas of targeted land and for the rest, they buy high yielding variety seeds from renowned NGOs or companies like Brac, Syngenta, ACI, Square, and Ispahani.

Sreedam Das, president of district unit of Krishok Samity, said farmers prefer BADC seeds as those are cultivated and preserved in scientific way, virus and fungus free and high yielding.

Abul Ala Moududi, seed certification officer in Nilphamari, said, "Most of the potato seeds in the market are of below standard and sold without seed certification tags.

Visiting Dhelapir Haat in Nilphamari and Taraganj Haat in Rangpur, this correspondent found that 80-kg bags of potato seeds, kept without certification tags, were selling for Tk 2,000 to Tk 2,400 each.

Several farmers in those markets said they have to buy low quality seeds as quality seeds of BADC are scarce.

Additional director of regional DAE, Mohammad Ali said, "Despite want of quality potato seeds, there will be no problem to achieve the production target."

Chained for a year

S DILIP ROY, Lalmonirhat

While Abu Hossain, a rickshaw-van puller by profession, is struggling to run his seven-member family with his meagre income, treatment of his 18-year-old mentally challenged son seems a dream for him.

As a result, Rana Islam, the third among five children of Abu Hossain of Shalmara village in Aditmari upazila, has to be kept chained as he has become a nuisance for the villagers, said locals.

To prevent Rana from wandering and for his own safety, he has been kept chained in a bamboo-made shed near their house for the last one year, said his father.

"Rana's mental illness first manifest when his mother died in 2012," said the father.

After his mother's demise, Rana roamed around the village and once he went missing for a year. Later, police rescued him from Bogura.

If Rana was freed, he wandered beyond the house and started abnormal behaviour with villagers. Later, he could not return home alone.

The situation gets out of control when children in the village chased him and threw stones at him.

Finding no other alternative, Rana was kept chained to a betel nut tree beside the bamboo shed, said Hossain.

Sometimes people assault Rana when he tries to close to them, said his grandfather Hazrat Ali.

It is tough for him to arrange his son's treatment due to financial hardship, said Hossain.

Rana's stepmother Basira Begum said Rana could be recovered if treated properly but they are unable to bear his treatment cost.

If someone comes forward for his treatment, Rana could be recovered, she said.

Hafizur Rahman Hafiz, a member of Bhelabari Union Parishad (UP), said Rana has to be kept chained, otherwise he becomes restless and the situation gets out of control at one stage.

The UP member also appealed to generous people for financial assistance for Rana's treatment.

Mentally challenged Rana Islam is kept chained at Shalmara village in Aditmari upazila of Lalmonirhat.

4 girls saved from early marriage

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Natore

Four schoolgirls were saved from child marriage following timely intervention of local administration in Natore's Gurudaspur upazila on Tuesday.

Informed that marriage of an underage girl, a student of Class V, was arranged at Mokimpur village, Upazila Nirbahi Officer (UNO) Tomal Hossain rushed to the spot and foiled the marriage bid.

In another drive, the UNO saved three schoolgirls from underage marriage in Modhyampara area of Chanchkoir municipality.

The three are the students of Chanchkoir Shahida Kashem Girls' School, said UNO Tomal.

Later, the parents of the four girls in presence of the UNO gave an undertaking not to marry their children before they reach the legal age for marriage.
