Dhaka asks Naypyidaw; urges conducive environment in Rakhine

DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENT

Dhaka has asked Naypyidaw to stop concocting campaigns against Bangladesh and focus on creating an environment in Rakhine conducive to sustained repatriation and reintegration of the Rohingyas.

Myanmar continues to spread fabricated information, misrepresented facts, and unsubstantiated claims to unjustifiably shift the onus of the Rohingya crisis on Bangladesh, said Bangladesh foreign ministry in a statement yesterday.

"This testifies to Myanmar's campaign to avoid its obligations to create conducive environment in Rakhine for the sustainable repatriation and reintegration of the Rohingyas," it said.

Some 750,000 Rohingyas fled a brutal military campaign in Myanmar's Rakhine State. Since then, two attempts of repatriation failed as Rohingyas in Cox's Bazar camps refused to return, saying that Myanmar has not ensured safety in Rakhine and there was no guarantee of citizenship.

However, Myanmar always tried to pass the blame on Bangladesh, the ministry said.

On November 15, Myanmar's State Counsellor's Office spokesperson claimed that non-cooperation and non-respect of bilateral arrangements by Bangladesh was

Won't seek govt nod for future rally

Say BNP leaders

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The BNP will not seek permission for holding rallies as the government is "not elected by the people's vote", Mirza Fakhrul Islam, secretary general of the party.

"We will not seek permission in future. Whenever necessary, we will hold rallies and take to the streets as it is our constitutional rights," he said yesterday, addressing a rally in front of the BNP's Nayapaltan office.

The rally was organised to demand release of BNP Chairperson Khaleda Zia, who has been in jail for almost 20 months now on corruption charges.

BNP expected to hold the rally on Saturday but did not have permission. "We got permission for this rally at 10:00am today [yesterday]," he said.

Leaders and activists of the BNP thronged the venue with placards, festoons and banners that carried

BENAPOLE BORDER

32 more held as they enter from India

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Benapole

Members of Border Guard Bangladesh yesterday arrested 32 people on charge of trespassing into Bangladesh from India yesterday.

Seventeen men, 13 women and two children illegally entered Bangladesh through Daulatpur border in Jashore's Benapole, said Subedar Mozammel Hossain, commander of 21 Daulatpur BGB camp.

The arrestees claimed to be hailing from Bagerhat and Munshiganj, he added.

According to Subedar Mozammel, a BGB team raided a mango orchard in the border area on information that a large group of people intruded into Bangladesh territory.

BGB found the intruders there, arrested them and later handed them over to Benapole Port Police Station, he added.

This correspondent managed to speak with two of the arrestees.

One of the two, Jorina Begum, 25, said she used to live in Bengaluru and work as a housemaid. Indian police raided her house recently and arrested her for

HONG KONG LOCAL COUNCIL POLLS

Protests drive record turnout

AFP, Hong Kong

Record numbers of people yesterday voted in Hong Kong district council elections that the city's pro-democracy movement hopes will pile pressure on the Beijing-backed government to heed their demands after months of violent protest.

Lengthy queues snaked out of polling stations across the territory in the election for 18 district councils, where high turnout is expected to benefit democratic forces.

The Electoral Affairs Commission said a record 56 percent of the 4.13 million citizens registered to vote had cast their ballots by yesterday evening.

It was already the highest turnout in Hong Kong's history of district council elections post handover from British rule, with five hours of voting still to go.

The selection of 452 councillors -- handling community-level concerns such as bus routes and garbage collection -- traditionally generates little excitement, but has taken on new significance following months of political unrest.

Hong Kong has been battered by months of mass rallies and violent clashes pitting police against protesters who are agitating for direct popular elections of the semi-autonomous Chinese territory's government, as well as a probe into alleged police brutality.

District councils have long been dominated by the pro-Beijing establishment, and voters seeking change hope that weakening that grip will give their movement fresh momentum.

"Even though one ballot can only help a little, I still hope it can bring change to society and support street protests in some way," 19-year-old student Michael Ng, voting for the first time, told AFP.

Nasa's new supersonic jet aims to slash flight times

MAIL ONLINE

A new Concorde-style supersonic passenger jet could slash flight times to Australia in half within the next decade.

The X-59 Quiet Supersonic Technology aircraft is being built by Lockheed Martin - assisted by Nasa - to perfect quiet sonic booms that would allow the plane to fly over land.

Concord, which was last flown in 2003, could not fly over land due to a powerful sonic boom that broke the sound barrier.

The X-59 is designed to cruise at 55,000ft at about 940mph and create just 75 Perceived Level decibel (PLdB) - about as loud as a car door closing. Lockheed Martin said the move "marks a milestone to bring supersonic commercial travel over land one step closer to reality."

It comes after Qantas embarked on a 19-hour non-stop flight from London to Sydney earlier this
