Remembering Bangabandhu through art

Celebrating the 100th birth anniversary of the Father of the Nation Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, an art camp, titled 'Bangabandhu: Jibon Theke Chitropote', was organised by the Bangladesh Shilkapala Academy (BSA) at the Zilla Shilpakala Academy Tungipara, Gopalganj, recently. Based on their works on themes from 'Oshomapto Attojiboni' and 'Karagarer Rojnamcha', 100 artists were selected for the camp.

Prior to the art camp, a boat journey was facilitated as a part of the camp's activities on November 30. Following the tour, a cultural programme and an art exhibition was organised at the Sheikh Moni Smriti Milonyaton of Zilla Shilpakala Academy Tungipara. The art camp featured a 100-foot canvas for all the artists to work on. Starting from 1971, till Bangabandhu's death in 1975, the artists were free to choose any theme, related to the journey and success of Bangabandhu for their artwork. Legendary art maestros, including Mustafa Monwar, Samarjit Roy Choudhury and Hashem Khan, participated in the event, amongst many others.

'Iti, Tomari Dhaka' coming to Netflix

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT DESK

Bangladesh's first anthology film, Iti, Tomari Dhaka, produced by Impress Telefilm, is set to be included in the library of Netflix. The news was confirmed by the film's creative producer, Abu Shahed Emon. "Considering the fact that Netflix has a very rigid quality control, it is a great achievement for us," he says. Emon believes that the film, which released in Bangladesh on November 15, has great potential to reach the movie-going audience worldwide. "The film is somewhat niche, and I feel like the audience of Netflix will receive it well," he adds.

Iti, Tomari Dhaka has received positive responses from film festivals all over the world, including Kolhapur International Film Festival, Chennai International Film Festival, Jogja NETPAC Asian Film Festival in Indonesia, Third Eye Asian International Film Festival in Mumbai, Aurangabad International Film Festival, Independent Film Festival of Chennai, and the Asian Film Festival, Pune.

her colourful paintings and fearless expressions, emotes joy and liveliness through her work. Being the granddaughter of Potua Quamrul Hassan, art runs in her blood. Her grandmother, Sakina Rahman was chief of the Dolls Department at BISCIC. Farhana currently works in Grameenphone as Head of Innovation, leading a team of creative modern-day innovators.

"I wish Teresa great success on her first solo exhibition," said Nazia Andaleeb Preema, "I hope she continues with her passion and ventures more and more into the world of creativity."

Teresa's joyful presence and free spirit can be felt through her strokes. She has done experiments on multiple subjects and colours, which enchanted viewers of Bangladesh and beyond.

The exhibition is open for all till today, from 3 pm to 8 pm.

National Nazrul Shommelon concludes in Netrakona

AMINUL ISLAM, from Mymensingh

National Nazrul Shommelon concluded at Zilla Shilpakala Academy Netrakona, recently. The three-day programme, organised by Nazrul Institute in collaboration with Netrakona district administration, included rendition of Nazrul songs, recitation from his poems and dance performances on popular songs of the bard.

State Minister for Fisheries and Livestock Ashraf Ali Khan Khasru inaugurated the event as the chief guest. The session began with a discussion on the poet's life and works, with noted educationist and columnist Prof Jatun Sarker as the chief discussant.

Nazrul Institute's Secretary and Project Director Abdur Rahim, Mayor of Netrakona Municipality Nazrul Islam Khan, Additional Police Superintendent Md Shahjahan Miah, Prof Motindra Sarker and Prof Golam Mustafaalso spoke at the discussion.

Artists from different cultural organisations of Netrakona, including Udichi Shilpi Gosthi, performed at the programme. Neelom Biswas Ratul, Vice-President of Udichi in Netrakona, mentioned how such events inspire young artistes to perform on national poet Nazrul's artistic creations.
